TEXTILE STRIKE'S ZERO HOUR COMES WITH NO CHANGES

Nation-Wide Walkout Apparently Effective Late Last Night

PEACE EFFORTS FAIL 150,000 Silk Workers Are Ordered To Join Giant Shutdown

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The zero hour for union workers to walk out of the nation's hundreds of textile mills came and passed tonight—and there was no change in their orders to strike until the end.

At headquarters of the United Textile Workers, labor leaders, tired out by days of unfruitful dickering, went to bed, leaving the office dark.

Even the federal mediators who had hoped against hope until well into the night decided the strike was inevitable. They, too, left the national labor relations board's suite in darkness.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Only the merest of hope for a last-minute peace treaty held suspended over the giant textile industry the sword of a general strike—a before-midnight walkout affecting between 700,000 and 1,000,000 workers.

Doggedly, the national labor relations board waged a twelfth hour struggle to avert the catastrophe. Much of its own prestige, a possible blow to recovery, probable violence and certain suffering by textile workers all were at stake. But hope for peace was dim.

Before noon today 150,000 silk workers were ordered to "let no wheel turn" after 11:30 tonight, an order already given to around 450,000 cotton textile workers and 100,000 silk workers.

Francis J. Gorman, doughty leader of the United Textile Workers strike committee, said that about 1,000,000 workers would be involved. Manufacturers estimated that only a few hundred thousand at most would walk out.

Violence appeared sure should the strike sword fall. Gorman had this to say:

"Our instructions are specific—to be peaceful if possible, but if our workers are slugged by hired thugs they are advised to slug back."

Throughout much of the pre-strike period executives of the various mills depended upon the outcome of conferences between labor representatives and the national labor relations board.

The strike committee was summoned to the office of Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the labor board, a few moments after they had extended the strike order to the silk industry.

During a recess in the hearing Garrison told reporters he saw a ray of hope for averting the walkout. Expectations rose when he said he "might" have an important announcement.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, would say upon leaving the conference only that he would report the discussions at once to the strike committee.

There was no doubt but that the union definitely was prepared for violence. Gorman said every precaution was being taken to preserve order. But in a sheaf of telegrams to governors of all states affected by the strike he asked protection from "the forces of employers" and "the insidious and disruptive forces of communism."

The telegrams listed the union's grievances, and continued:

"We know that employers will plead with you to send troops into mill areas for what they will call preservation of order. We have instructed every local union to maintain the strictest discipline and we are confident that, unless there is attack upon them, they will remain throughout this strike a peaceable and law-abiding group of Americans."

"We ask you to give to our people that protection which you are required to give."

U. S. AGENTS SEIZE RICH LIQUOR CARGO

ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Intruders of the federal liquor enforcement unit here, heavily armed, made out near the Chef Menteur past of New Orleans and captured a load of six thousand gallons of alcohol which was being landed on the vessel "Sylvia."

Investigators estimated the tax value of the seized cargo at $75,000 and the value of the trucks and automobiles at $10,000.

They said the raid netted one of the largest hauls since prohibition in Louisiana when the government was active against rum smuggling.

Those taken into custody were booked by the federal agents as F. J. (Jerry) Wood, Sam Smith, alias "Kansas City Sam," and William Regan, alias "Big Boy," who was quoted by one of the men as saying he had "places" in New Orleans and Minneapolis.

Unnecessary Deaths New Steel Mill Jews Will Approve Poison As A Cure

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd.)

GOVERNORS of forty-three states join in proclaiming September "street and highway safety month."

States issuing the call possess twenty-one million of the nation's automobiles, and they average twenty-six thousand seven hundred deaths from automobile accidents annually. The nation's "grand total" is thirty thousand five hundred such deaths.

DETAILS WIRE by Mr. G. D. Newton, of Hartford, Conn., show that this year thus far, deaths from automobile accidents are running twenty per cent ahead of last year, meaning probably thirty-six thousand deaths for 1934.

NRA'S SQUABBLE WITH BALTIMORE FIRM IS SETTLED

Manufacturer Had Pinioned Blue Eagle's Feathers In Court

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The NRA today settled one of its sternest squabbles, making peace with L. Greif and Brother, Inc., Baltimore clothing manufacturer, who went into court and temporarily pinioned the Blue Eagle's feathers.

Under the settlement the Greif company, charged with failure to pay wages above the clothing code's minimum, will discontinue its suit in federal court at Baltimore. The legal action had restrained the recovery administration from removing the firm's Blue Eagle.

For its part the NRA will withdraw an order prohibiting the clothing code authority from issuing NRA labels to the Greif concern, the second largest clothing manufacturer in the country, with ten branch offices and plants in Pennsylvania and Virginia, as well as at Baltimore.

Last July 6, NRA ordered the company to pay $100,000 in back wages or lose its Blue Eagle. Whether this is to be paid under today's settlement is not known.

LAST U. S. WARSHIP LEAVES CUBAN AREA

HAVANA, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Uncle Sam took his last warship out of Cuban waters today.

The United States cruiser Richmond, her 550 sailors regretting leaving the city they had come to regard as home, upped anchor and sailed away this afternoon for St. Petersburg, Fla.

Thus ended a full year of United States surveillance in Cuban waters. The first American destroyers steamed into Havana harbor while the bloody outbreak that attended the overthrow of President Gerardo Machado in August, 1933, was at its height.

President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes took over the reins of government provisionally, and the destroyers sailed away again.

They were soon back, accompanied this time by heavier craft, cruisers and battleships.

2 Maryland Boys Discover Buried Treasure In Cellar

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1.—(AP)—When Theodore Jones, 16, and Henry Grob, 15, started digging a hole in a cellar they never dreamed of finding a buried treasure.

Before long, however, the two boys had struck a pot of gold—$11,000 in gold coins. They don't know whether the gold belongs to them or not. The police today are holding it temporarily.

The two were digging in the cellar of the Jones home yesterday to bury trinkets of a club they formed. Suddenly a shovel Jones was using struck something hard.

"Look," he said, "here's a medal." "You're crazy," shouted Grob, "that's a $20 gold piece!"

From then on, Jones said, "we were in that hole—hands, elbows, knees and everything."

They excavated a rusted gallon con-

DOUGLAS RESIGNS HIS POSITION AS BUDGET DIRECTOR

Roosevelt Confirms Resignation By Appointing Successor

DANIEL BELL NAMED President Has Busy Day, Keeps Eye On Textile Strike

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today confirmed the resignation of Lewis Douglas as director of the budget by appointing the appointment of Daniel W. Bell, commissioner of accounts and deposits, to serve as acting director.

This was the first official intimation the president had given of receipt of Mr. Douglas' resignation, which was handed to Mr. Roosevelt Thursday evening, when Mr. Douglas paid a brief call at Hyde Park House. The call was described at the time as purely social.

The president announced the appointment of a temporary successor to Mr. Douglas at the conclusion of a busy round of conferences, during which he approved an extension of the existing NRA automobile code for two months to November 3rd; received a report of progress on the housing program from James A. Moffett, administrator, and watched developments in the textile strike.

His acceptance of the resignation was made also within two hours after Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, had told newspaper correspondents that "there is nothing to say" about the Douglas resignation.

At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt announced that Mr. Douglas also had submitted the resignation to F. W. Lowery, the assistant director of the budget.

Mr. Bell is a veteran of the treasury and apparently was selected without regard for political qualifications. He entered the treasury in 1911 as a young man and worked up through the various grades to his present position.

No immediate successor was named for Mr. Lowery.

While Mr. Roosevelt held Mr. Douglas' resignation on his desk today, and before announcing the acceptance of it, he mapped out in conference with special aides the money needs for continuing unemployment and drought relief which was one of the original causes of the split between the president and his budget chief.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, is a week-end guest at the summer White House.

In the midst of conferences with aides on relief needs, Mr. Roosevelt received a delegation of cotton garment manufacturers who brought first hand word of their recent resolution refusing to abide by his order cutting hours and increasing wages in the cotton garment industry.

In the group were: Ralph Hunter, chairman of the cotton garment code; Raymond Walsh, counsel for the industry; and Col. R. B. Paddock, executive.

CUBAN YOUTHS SNIPE AT HAVANA OFFICERS

HAVANA, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Demonstrating students blocked all traffic around the University of Havana for several hours today by sniping at police from university windows, but early in the afternoon they began surrendering in small groups to policemen armed with rifles, who released those they found unarmed.

The students appeared to be abandoning their stronghold after several bursts of firing around noon.

About 300 students, members of the radical groups, gathered in the university this morning to protest against the killing early today of Rudolfo Sanchez, 22-year-old Cuban under arrest for political crime.

Shortly after the student meeting opened, a dozen shots were fired from university windows at policemen drawn up along nearby streets.

The Cuban constitution prevents the entrance of police or soldiers into the university buildings, but the police kept a close vigilance over the campus.

AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKE SUE FOR DIVORCE

BUDAPEST, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Archduke Albrecht, pretender to the throne of Hungary, today was sued for divorce by his wife, the former Irene Lebach, on the ground of desertion.

The announcement of her action caused a sensation in Hungarian monarchical and social circles, where it was recalled that the Archduke was so passionately attached to the beautiful commoner that he ignored all the appeals of his 78-year-old father, the Archduke Friedrich, and his other relatives to marry Mme. Lebach secretly, July 16, 1930, in Brighton, England.

Three years later, Albrecht received a special dispensation from the Pope to permit the marriage.

The wife, who is 26 years old and one of the most beautiful women in Hungary, was divorced from Ludwig von Rudanay, the former Hungarian minister to Sofia.

Both Albrecht and his wife now are in Budapest.

COLONEL TURNER SETS NEW MARK ACROSS COUNTRY

Flier Reaches New York From Burbank In 10 Hours, 2 Minutes

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Colonel Roscoe Turner, dashing speed demon of the air, set a new record for a flight from the Pacific to the Atlantic today of ten hours and two minutes.

He roared into Floyd Bennett field in his orange monoplane like a streak of fire from a rifle barrel at 4:05 p. m. Eastern Standard Time, shading the record he made last year of ten hours and four minutes.

The clockers figured his margin over the old mark at two minutes and 39 seconds.

"The new record isn't much better than my old one," Turner said, "but we can't break records by hours any more. Minutes are going to count plenty."

The colonel not only smashed the record but won $3,500 in prizes. Two thousand dollars was the prize for the Bendix race from Burbank, Calif., to New York, which Turner alone completed.

Other entrants stopped at Cleveland for the air race. The other $1,500 was a bonus race officials posted for any flier who broke the record.

Turner was flagged away from the Union Air terminal at Burbank this morning at 3:02 a. m. (Pacific Standard Time). Two hours and 45 minutes later he came down at Albuquerque, N. M., replenished his fuel supply in eight minutes and winged away to Wichita, Kans. He stopped four

INFLATION TREND SEEN AT CAPITAL

Developments Point To Ultimate Full Realization Of Idea

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Recent treasury developments pointed tonight the trend of the administration's monetary policy toward ultimate full realization of the inflationary possibilities of past dollar devaluation, but with an immediate determination to keep inflationary talk from upsetting the market for government bonds.

In addition, there was revealed a governmental effort to see that small industries are supplied with sufficient funds to keep the recovery program in progress. It would test out the often advanced contention that the banks are refusing to make sound loans in a continuing effort to keep themselves as liquid as possible.

The happenings of the week pointing to these trends were:

Secretary Morgenthau announced that the $2,800,000,000 profit accruing from last year's increase in the price of gold eventually would be used to retire government bonds and thereby reduce the national debt, now at an all-time peak of $27,000,000,000.

The treasury made known that the $1,724,700,000 in government bonds falling due in September and October would be retired in the usual way by offering new issues of government securities in exchange for them.

A survey of rejected applications for bank loans in the Chicago area was announced to begin next week. From the results, government financial officers will decide whether sound loan applications were turned down, and whether the government can supply the credit asked in them.

New checks too were generally anticipated with the naming of Daniel W. Bell, commissioner of accounts at the treasury, to be acting director of the budget. He will replace Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, long out of sympathy with administration fiscal policies.

ORLEANS CANDIDATES FILE BALLOT SUITS

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Attorneys for Gus Blanchard, candidate for congress from the second congressional district, Judge Walter Gleason, candidate for justice of the supreme court, and Francis Williams, candidate for the public service commission, in opposition to the Huey Long forces, today filed suits in Jefferson parish district court seeking to have removed from the registration lists 1,770 alleged illegal registrations.

The suits were accepted by V. A. Pitre, clerk of court, but no date was set for the hearing in the absence of Judge L. Robert Riviere.

The candidates alleged that the defendants failed to comply with the constitution of Louisiana in that "said defendants have failed to make personal application to the registrar of voters or any legally appointed deputy for registration."

RESIGNS

The resignation of Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, was accepted yesterday by President Roosevelt.

NEGRO WHO TRIED TO ASSAULT GIRL IS TAKEN BY MOB

Georgia Officers Are Unable To Find Black Or His Body

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 1.—(AP)—A negro accused of attempting to attack a young white woman was taken by a masked mob from Bryan and Liberty county officers last night and his fate was unknown. The young woman was accosted on a lonely road in Bryan county between Ways Station and Kellers. The mob took the negro from the officers near the scene of the crime.

The officers said they were on their way to Savannah with the negro to put him in jail here for safekeeping when they were held up by a group of masked, armed men who forcibly took the negro from them and drove away with him in an automobile, heading into a woods.

The motor car carrying the negro and his captors was followed by several other cars.

After the crowd eluded the officers, they searched all night but said they could find no trace of the mob, nor of the negro. The search was continued today.

The young woman victim of the attempted assault was a resident of

WOMAN AND CHILDREN FOUND DEAD IN HOME

FRANKFORT, Ind., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Edith Harding, 35, widow of Dr. Lofey Harding, and her two children, George III, and Ann, 9, were found dead in their home here today, victims of asphyxiation.

A note, written apparently by Mrs. Harding, was found near the bodies. It included instructions for disposal of the estate and said this would be "the happiest moment of my life" since the death of her young husband.

The three bodies, dressed in night clothing, were on a mattress in front of a gas range, all jets of which had been opened. Neighbors said they had seen nobody at the home since Tuesday night.

Dr. Harding, a prominent young physician, died more than a year ago following an illness.

Renovize Campaign Pledges Reach Total Of $280,107

At the expiration of sixty days of activity in the "renovize the Twin Cities" campaign, workers reported a total of $280,107.66 in pledges for repairs, rebuilding and remodeling homes in Monroe and West Monroe, it was announced Saturday by S. H. McClary, the campaign director.

Of the total pledges, $15 per cent have already been redeemed, it was announced. Redeemed pledges as reported total $66,716.03.

The main activities in the campaign have been completed, but a follow-up program will be observed, in which three canvassers of the group of eleven ERA workers will be engaged. The follow-up campaign will include a survey of the homes where pledges have been signed in order to check up the results of the original program. When this phase is completed, it is expected that over $300,000 will have been pledged in

Witnesses Tell Of Alleged Graft In City Of New Orleans

DENIED BY WALMSLEY

Special Legislative Session Looms After End Of Inquiry

By Ralph Wheatley (Chief New Orleans Associated Press Bureau)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long began the weaving of a web around his mortal political enemy, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, through testimony today before his special state legislative investigating committee by which he hopes to address the mayor out of office.

Under a section of the state constitution, the committee has the authority to take testimony without rebuttal or cross examination and lay it before the state legislature where a two-thirds vote of the senate and house can address any officer, except the governor or acting governor, out of office and he would not be eligible to succeed himself.

Long, who has the power of a Caesar in Louisiana, has indicated that he will call another special session of the state legislature probably within a week at which he will attempt to oust Mayor Walmsley and Judge Nat W. Bond and Judge Walter Gleason, civil district court judges of New Orleans, who have rendered decisions adverse to the Long political interests.

At the last special session of the legislature Long held a decided two-thirds majority in the senate and occasionally commanded a two-thirds in the house. Some of the old time politicians say they do not see how Mayor Walmsley can withstand the latest onslaught of "Kingfish" Long, who can prevent Walmsley from offering any defense or even appearing before his accusers.

The hearing today, one of the strangest performances of its kind ever held in the United States, brought out testimony of witnesses who claimed to know of payments from lottery operators aggregating $1,000 weekly to Mayor Walmsley and $700 weekly to Police Superintendent George Feyer and lesser amounts to police captains.

The testimony was taken behind closed doors with a Long hand-picked audience, with all newspapermen barred but with a radio broadcasting set-up. The committee room and environs fairly bristled with troops. They barred all entrances and patrolled the corridors and rough-handed anyone attempting to pass.

They escorted Huey Long to and from the committee room, a suite of eight forming a half moon around the "Kingfish" as he walked against the wall of the corridors.

Long said he wanted the press association representatives present but the committee had overruled him. One of the newspapermen said he had never before heard of a Louisiana committee overruling him and Long grinned.

And the hearing was launched in camera with Huey running the whole show. He dropped easily in the roll of cross examination and gloated over testimony that assailed the reputation of his political foes. A string of witnesses told the committee that they had knowledge of the operation of a huge lottery ring, race horse handbooks and houses of girls with protection money being paid to the police and city administration.

The high spot of the testimony was reached when a witness, who said he was a gambler, told of a Mississippi and no relation to Huey Long, testified that some twenty lottery establishments were operated in New Orleans and paid approximately $3,500

LENGTHY ILLNESS IS FATAL FOR AUTHOR

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Miss Will Allen Dromgoole, editor of the Sunday literary page of the Nashville Banner and author of plays, poetry and fiction, died early today after a lingering illness.

Although in ill health for several weeks, Miss Dromgoole had been confined to her home only since last Monday. Her regular feature page appeared in the Sunday Banner and she had begun preparation of a page for next Sunday.

Miss Dromgoole began her long writing career when she won a prize for a story submitted to the Youth's Companion many years ago. Later, she contributed regularly to this publication and to the Arena.

In 1897, she was engraving clerk of the senate when Robert L. Taylor was governor. She later wrote a book "The Heart of Old Hickory," in which Governor Taylor was portrayed.

A play, "The Tennesseean," was produced here about 20 years ago. After several years of prose writing, Miss Dromgoole turned to the composition of poetry, and it was in this field that she achieved recognition throughout the south.

RUSSIA PROTESTS ALLEGED TORTURE

Soviet Tells Japanese Of Cruelty To Railroad
Employee

MOSCOW, Sept. 2.—(Sunday).—(AP)—The Soviet government protested today to Tamekichi Ota, Japanese ambassador, against the alleged torture of a woman employee of the Chinese Eastern railway at Harbin, Manchukuo, whose hair was said to have been pulled out by gendarmes.

Assistant Commissar of Foreign Affairs Stomonyakoff told Ota that the Japanese government to "stop all intolerable actions" which "work such obvious harm to the relations between the two states."

A Soviet communique describing the interview between Ambassador Ota and Stomonyakoff on August 31 said the woman was beaten about the face and head, her hair pulled out and pieces of metal placed between her fingers and her hands bound tightly, with the result that she faints.

The statement said Japanese employees had poured water into the woman's nose and throat, and mistreated her so badly that she was ill in a hospital.

The statement further said the woman was arrested August 22 and released August 27, but told she would be arrested again as soon as her health improved.

Stomonyakoff told Ota that the treatment of Miss Golovina was confirmed by information the press had about the alleged inhumane treatment of other Soviet employees in an effort to make them admit they had plotted wrecks and disorders along the Chinese Eastern railway.

Savannah, employed in the Bryan Neck section.

She said her automobile was stopped by a tree placed across the highway. She was traveling alone. As she got out of the car to remove the obstruction, the negro confronted her.

Officers said they were able to trail him because of his bare feet, with two toes missing, left clear tracks.

The negro was nude when he stopped the young woman about 1 o'clock yesterday and attempted to assault her. He was clothed, however, when he was arrested a short time later.

The negro was arrested in the woods in the vicinity where the crime was committed.

While the negro was kept at the jail in Hinesville, Sheriff M. F. Clark of Liberty county announced he admitted being the man who had attempted the attack. He confessed he was nude at the time. The negro said he put a log on the road and blocked the way of the automobile which the young woman was driving.

When she got out to remove the log so that the car might pass, the man admitted he dragged her, screaming, into the woods. He said, however, the assault was not committed because he became frightened and ran away after retrieving his clothes.

Monroe Firemen Make Three Runs Saturday

Three blazes were extinguished by Monroe firemen Saturday with negligible damage in each case.

At 7:35 p. m., Company No. 1 made a run to a barber shop on DeSard street between Fifth and Sixth streets where it extinguished a blaze which was caused when gas escaping from a pipe became ignited.

Company No. 3 shortly after 6 p. m. extinguished a blaze on the Forsythe ball park fence. Damage was slight. The cause of the fire was not learned.

Shortly after 2 p. m., Company No. 1 made a run to West Monroe where it extinguished a grass fire near the Dixie Tourist camp.

It will take eight months to build the new steel mill, at a cost above twelve million dollars. THE NEW YORK state American Legion demands a new law that would give government the power to draft everybody, in case of war, with power to control all manufacturers, railroads, etc. The national government assumed all those rights and powers, last time, and would do so again, without any special law.

Many would advocate a law forbidding any wholesale conscription of American youth, or cash, without a preliminary vote, allowing the people to express their opinion. The nation may not be always as foolish as it was last time.

IMPROBABLE THINGS do happen. At Jonesboro, Arkansas, Leon Brown and Homer Stewart, rival candidates for deputy clerk, each got seven hundred and fifty-four votes. The learned Dr. Newton H. Brown, of Arkansas State college, says with on election a year, such a thing, according to mathematical probability, would not happen again before the year 1,669,196 or 1,667,262 years from now. Even the human race will still be young, since science assures you that men will live here for hundreds of millions of years more.

A SCIENTIST of South Africa announces that the puff adder's venom is the basis of a new drug producing amazingly good results in treatment of epilepsy, 20 per cent of patients cured, 74 per cent greatly improved, according to an interesting article by Gobind Bohari Lal. In this country it is understood that the puff adder, swelling out his cheeks, cobra-fashion, only pretends to be poisonous. Perhaps Africa has a worse puff adder.

THERE IS NO DOUBT that the poison carried by the malaria-bearing mosquito, cures paresis, creating a high temperature that effects the cure. After paresis is cured, you cure the malaria with quinine. Physicians hope that many diseases may be conquered by artificially creating high bodily temperatures, hot enough to kill disease germs, not hot enough to kill the patient.

In view of recent discoveries, doctors should not be always prescribing something "to bring your fever down." Nature may know more than the run of doctors, in some cases.

Once doctors always bled patients, no matter what ailed them, thus killing many. They may be killing some now by using drugs to lower temperature, interfering with helpful nature.

Mississippi River Under Control, Says Engineer

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Major W. M. Hoge, U. S. engineer in charge of the Memphis district, felt like thumbing his nose at the Mississippi river today.

The might stream which brought disaster in the valley in 1927 is now a tamed and obedient giant, in the opinion of Major Hoge, who returned to his office today from a thorough inspection of projects on the upper part of the district.

The Memphis district extends from Cairo, Ill., to the mouth of the Arkansas river on the south. Millions of dollars have been expended, but the result is a navigable river which can be held inside the levees in the district in the event of waters higher than those of 1927.

In this district, the levee program will be practically completed within 90 days. Revetment and other work will continue.

Affair To Be Staged At Bernstein Place On Bayou DeSiard

In commemoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of Louisiana State university, which will be celebrated next January 2, Thursday night of this week has been designated throughout the state as alumni night. It was announced here yesterday.

In appropriate observance of the event, the L. S. U. Alumni association of Ouachita parish has arranged for a barbecue to be held on that night at the Bernstein place on Bayou DeSiard. Invitations have been extended by the association to alumni of the university, students at the university, friends of the institution, high school graduates and students, alumni, and friends of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university to attend the affair. City, parish and school officials also have been invited.

The meeting will get under way at 7 p. m. and will be featured by an address by Dr. B. F. Mitchell, dean of the lower division of the university.

A 45-minute radio program in honor of L. S. U.'s diamond jubilee year will be broadcast over WWL, New Orleans, and will be received at the barbecue here over a set to be installed by a local dealer.

At the meeting, parish alumni officers will be elected for the ensuing year and each parish in the fifth congressional district will vote on a district president.

A committee has been appointed to sell tickets to the barbecue and the cost of attending the affair is said to be nominal.

To commemorate the 75th anniversary of L. S. U., the 1934-35 session at the institution has been designated as diamond jubilee year. As a part of the celebration, a diamond jubilee student loan fund of $75,000 will be raised, of which one-third, or $25,000 is to be raised by the alumni. The fund will be so conducted that worthy students may borrow from it.

BANDIT CAUGHT BY TEXAS POSSE

Youth Captured After Three Yeggs Rob Sandwich Shop

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Sept. 1.—(P)—Shortly after three young men held up a sandwich stand outside Waxahachie today, officers captured one of the suspected robbers and pursued the other two into the river bottoms near Hutchins.

The youth was caught after he and his two companions abandoned a sedan, bearing Georgia license plates, on the Overton road near Dallas after they had turned from the Hutchins road toward the river bottoms.

Three young men, unmasked, drove up to the sandwich stand on the outskirts of Waxahachie. One of them, armed with a pistol, went in and demanded money. The owner said he told the robber he had no money and the young man departed.

The suspect caught by Dallas police said he was a deserter from the army at Fort Benning, Ga. He said one of his companions formerly served on a Georgia chain gang but that he knew little about the other man. The suspect was armed with a small caliber rifle.

The association, embracing southern and southwestern states, will conduct alternate band and orchestra concerts with the first band concert scheduled for 1935 and the first orchestra concert for 1936.

Memphis and New Orleans, it was announced, are seeking the 1935 competition.

Other officers elected are Roy M. Matvin, supervisor of school music at Greenwood, Miss., first vice-president; N. J. Whitehurst, of Huntsville, Texas, supervisor of school music in Texas, second vice-president; and Frank C. Ellison, New Orleans, secretary-treasurer.

Watch Buried 38 Years Keeping Correct Time

Newspapers several days ago published a story relating how a watch lost in the woods 10 years ago was recently returned to its owner and is now keeping correct time.

However, F. F. Ferrington, 1318 DeSard street, is the proud possessor of a time-piece which beats that record considerably. His watch was buried 38 years and is now keeping perfect time!

The watch, Mr. Ferrington said, was bought by his father, J. K. Ferrington of Franklin parish, who died in 1918. Mr. Ferrington purchased the watch in New Orleans in 1886 and lost it the same year in Franklin parish.

The watch was recovered in 1924 by Willie Clark, farmer of ward one, Franklin parish, who unearthed it

The Palace answers the fashion question What to Wear for Fall

What should my fall silhouette be?

Fifteen Paris coutouriers gave fifteen different interpretations of the New Fall silhouette. However, there are certain points on which all agree. Necklines are high... busts are curved... shoulders are narrower and sloping... waistlines are defined... sleeve interests are at or below the elbow. Skirts are narrow... so narrow they are often slit. Which all mean that you may have curves but your body must be molded in sheath like lines and your silhouette must be of the classic type.

How long shall I wear my skirts?

You'll wear many skirt lengths this year if you listen to Paris. For daytime the length is about the same, from 9 to 9 1/2 inches from the floor. Sports clothes show skirts about one inch shorter indicating one of the many marked features of divergence between sports and formal fashions. Afternoon frocks are ankle length and for evening trains are less numerous but still a smart fashion.

What are the leading colors...?

Things look black at first... then comes the rich deep shades of brown... many new shades of green offer lovers of green a chance to exploit it... red is sponsored in both brilliant and dark shades. Rust shades, again make their appearance while peacock blue and black tulip are the new members of the color family.

What is the fabric story...?

Woolens will play the leading roll in fabric fashions. And most all woolens have an invisible stripe or rib... and there are no spare-ribs this season. They simply can't be spared. Most are diagonal with some vertical. This applies to hairy, smooth or tweed effects. Novelty weaves in both silk and woolens have been exploited as never before and checks and plaids are outstanding. Rough crepe in bold patterns and ribbed effects in solid colors will lead. Taffeta in novelty effects will lead as a trimming.

What about coats and suits...?

Coats offer a choice of three basic silhouettes, the fitted, belted or loose. The belted front and loose back are the variant of these two fashions. Furs are generously used and collar styles offer original ideas. Arm holes are deep, and fur is seen occasionally on the sleeves. Elegance is the keynote of coat fashions.

Suits are high fashions for both sports and formal daytime wear. The two-thirds, three-quarter and seven-eighths length jacket will be belted, straight or swaggy, tailored or formal daytime skirt lengths will be one inch longer than sports suits and will be trimmed with short haired furs.

What about sportswear...?

Lovers of sports clothes will have ample opportunity to express their individuality with swaggy suits, sports skirts and blouses, sweaters, pigskin or suede jackets, sports coats, tailored wool frocks and rough silks in bold prints and of course there are accessories and shoes to go with them.

What's new in shoe fashions?

Shoes are higher cut, especially in the oxford. Black and brown will be prime favorites. Suede and kid will be staple but fabrics such as gabardine cloth, cavalcade cloth, which resembles a tweed and Knitex which looks like a more loosely woven tweed holds the spotlight; be worn with surface interest woolens.

What hosiery colors are new?

The old fashion black is the newest thing in hose since they are made without rings. And black will be worn for both daytime and evening. The deep rich shades of brown ranging from the black browns to the reddish browns to the grey browns are shown, giving a wonderful selection.

What's new in handbags...?

There's a lot of fashion "in the bag." Smooth leathers with calf a leader are smart... novelty leathers make a strong bid for sports accessories. Black is a favorite with the rich dark shades of brown following. Trimmings are of metal and fittings are elaborate.

The glove situation...?

We have it well in hand. Fabric gloves for sports and daytime resemble bengaline with their diagonal self stripe. Kid and lambskins have their fashion interest on the cuff. Black again leads with brown second and navy third.

Where did the designers get their ideas for the modes...?

Paris says the richest pages of fashion history furnished the inspiration for the styles of 1934. From the Russian we get the tunic in its many interpretations. From the director period comes the high waistline, the slit skirt and the "night gown dress." From the medieval period come the princess silhouette and the monastic theme. The Renaissance inspires the square neckline and the off shoulder line is inspired by the 2nd Empire period. All blend together in fashions that are superb in their appeal and perfected to the last degree.

Mental Infection

Persons who have reasonable knowledge of sanitary measures are careful to protect their bodies from infection. An intelligent person will not bandage a wound with a soiled rag. He will not drink impure milk, nor put dirty food into his mouth. He will refuse to occupy a bedroom or use articles that have been used by someone else who has a contagious disease.

Yet every day intelligent persons expose themselves willingly to mental infection. Every day persons who are rigidly sanitary in a physical way, will allow themselves to be contaminated astoundingly in a mental way.

A man who will punctiliously wash his hands after he has shaken hands with other persons, to avoid acquiring possible disease germs, will allow those same persons to fill his mind with suggestions that are infinitely worse.

An unwholesome thought is a mental disease germ. If it gets into the mind and fastens itself there, the entire mentality may be infected by it, as a tick gives cows the Texas fever.

A man who commits a crime has his mind infected by a crime disease germ. Professional politicians are apt to have their minds infected with the germ of political rascality and public exploitation. That disease is so common and so persistent that it has become chronic among many of those who follow politics for a living. Today a man who goes into politics and keeps himself from being morally infected, must use rigid protective measures.

Men who are decent and who really desire to keep themselves and others decent, will sit hour after hour relating foul stories, pumping unclean thoughts into each others' minds until they feel at the end of the orgy as if their mentalities and their souls should be scrubbed with carbolic acid as a matter of purification.

Sometimes a deadly mental disease germ will drop into the mind from a source that cannot be accounted for. Unless speedily destroyed, it may spread and multiply until the entire consciousness is filled with it and the entire outlook is clouded and corrupted. A person thus mentally affected may proceed to do things so atrocious that later on he will be amazed at his own actions, and will ask himself wonderingly, "What could have possessed me?" Something has possessed him. A vicious mental infection has been allowed to develop within him.

The physical body is so constructed that under ordinary conditions it will protect itself against infection. If every disease germ that enters your system should live and multiply you would have been dead long ago. Every day your body wards off and the white cells in your blood destroy thousands, yes, millions of obnoxious microbes.

While the body automatically protects itself from infection, the mind does not, unless it has been taught to do so. The owner of a mind has to train that mind to safeguard itself against thought contamination. How? By educating the mind to reject and eject harmful thoughts the instant they appear. Once such thoughts are permitted to lodge, they are difficult, perhaps impossible to remove.

Sometimes flight is the safeguard to employ against a menace of mental infection, just as flight is sometimes the course to pursue to escape bodily contagion or infection. If we were walking along a highway and suddenly realized that we were about to meet a person afflicted with the black plague, we should know exactly what to do. Similarly, it is sometimes but the part of wisdom speedily to get away from some condition that may give us a dangerous mental infection.

OLD FRONTIERS GONE

The changes wrought by aviation in the military world nowhere have been more strikingly illustrated than by Stanley Baldwin in urging the house of commons to support the government's proposal for a greatly enlarged air force.

"Since the days of the air," the acting prime minister said, "the old frontiers have gone, and when you think of the defenses of England you no longer think of the chalk cliffs of Dover. You think of the Rhine. That is where today our frontier lies."

It is in the air, not on land or water, that Great Britain must look for its future security.

The same condition applies to all nations today. Huge fleets and great standing armies will continue to be important aids to national defense, but these, without adequate air forces, will mean little to a country attacked by a nation well armed for war.

The destruction wrought by airplanes and Zeppelins during the World war was as nothing compared to what could be done today with the latest air equipment.

Any international disarmament plan that does not include air forces will be of little value in reducing the danger of war or limiting its destructiveness.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES A. MONTAGUE

THE EASIEST WAY

I'd like, on my vacation
To see a foreign nation
Some land like Spain
Where I might gain
A broader point of view,
I long to see Roumania
And Turkey and Albania;
Afghanistan and Hindustan,
I'd like to visit, too.

I'd love to make excursions
Among the tented Persians,
Where Omar wrote
The lines we quote
So glibly ever here,
And maybe stop at Iceland,
Which some folks think a nice land.
Though others say
Who've been that way,
The climate is severe.

But when I plan to travel
My friends all carp and cavil,
"You can't that map
Too much old chap,"
They murmur in alarm,
And so, on my vacation
I'll see no foreign nation,
But bide a wee
Beside the sea,
Or on some nearby farm.

What Depression Wrought

By BRUCE CATTON

It is easy to be glib about the victims of the depression; easy to say airily that jobless men can live on their savings if they have been prudent, can get help from relatives, and can, all in all, "get along somehow."

But it is a little different when you take a close-up look at things. Such a look is provided in a study just completed by the U. S. Department of Labor. The department's experts investigated the cases of 1,000 representative railway employees to see what happens to a wage earner when hard times come.

These workers took a general 10 per cent wage cut in February, 1932; but short time and loss of overtime work had already reduced their pay very materially, so that during the four years of the depression half of them had lost as much as 30 per cent of their incomes.

In 1932, for instance, two-thirds of these 1,000 men earned less than $1,500; only 18 per cent got as much as $1,750.

Meanwhile, many family burdens increased. Fully 200 of the 1,000 workers took jobless friends or relatives into their homes. Many others made regular gifts of cash or groceries to needy families in their neighborhoods.

So what happened? To begin with, savings vanished. Nearly all these 1,000 families used up their bank accounts; half of them had to sacrifice their insurance policies.

In 115 families, all with small children, the daily supply of milk was reduced. Thirty-two families cut off their milk entirely. Nearly all the families cut down drastically on their purchases of butter, meat, fresh fruits, and vegetables.

Health was neglected. In nearly a third of the 1,000 families one or more members required medical attention, but could not afford it. Teeth were badly neglected. Requests from school authorities for dental or medical attention for children were repeatedly ignored.

Lodge, club, and church memberships were dropped. In 135 families all subscriptions to newspapers and magazines had been canceled. Many of these people reported that they had not even seen a movie for years. As one man put it, "When Sunday comes, we just sit."

This, then, is a picture of the human cost of the depression. It is worth remembering that these 1,000 families were far better prepared than most to meet the depression, and suffered much less than the average.

But the picture is, nevertheless, an appalling one. It is, as the Labor Department experts remark, a picture of "a slow retreat from relative security toward destitution."

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

(World Washington Correspondent)
WASHINGTON.—One of those six questions Roosevelt asked us was tricky. The only possible answer seemed to be "Yes."

You remember—
"Is your bank account more secure than a year ago?"

Since the first of the year, at least 97 per cent of all bank depositors have been entitled to sleep easier with the knowledge that their money was insured against loss. Congress, in the law under which the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation was created, saw to that.

So, even if nobody had agreed with Mr. Roosevelt that he was better off, or more hopeful or less burdened with debt, the president should have had an almost unanimous "yes" on the bank question.

But the FDIC is sorely chagrined because herds of depositors are ignorant of this protection. As late as May, many banks were complaining of mild "secret runs."

The NEA Service has been taking a newspaper poll of answers to the president's questions which strengthens the idea that millions know nothing of deposit insurance.

Majorities in some cities replied that their accounts were no more secure; a strong minority in the poll still insists they aren't.

There doesn't seem to be any joker in the insurance scheme, however. More than 14,000 commercial banks are insured by FDIC for all accounts up to $5,000. Fewer than 1,000 are outside the system—all state banks.

The FDIC starts the payoff as soon as a receiver is named. The first payoff was for a bank in Peoria, Ill., where 99 per cent of depositors received their money in full. In Pittsburgh a payoff began the day after the bank closed.

The plan started with a $330,000,000 repaying back-log from the treasury and banks have paid in $110,000,000 to the insurance fund through a half-of-one per cent assessment, which will be repeated in the fall.

All banks admitted to insurance must first be found solvent. Those insured have about 32 billions of deposits; the uninsured only 500 millions.

Some time this fall all insured banks will be required to post signs announcing the insurance of their deposits. But there will always be folks who never found out about it.

Some Underground Coding
NRA codes aren't news any more, but just to show you the sort of thing that still goes on—

The code approved for the undertakers—known here as the "funeral service industry"—specially barred "any form of enterprise which deceives or defrauds."

The president's order of approval qualified that to read, "nothing in this section shall supersede any state law which by its terms permits any of the practices described herein by members of the industry." But the undertakers got busy and had that modified still further, to read:

"Nothing contained in this section shall supersede any state law which by its terms expressly authorizes this industry to organize, promote, participate in, or operate a form of enterprise prohibited therein."

Another Big NRA "Crisis"

You'd be amazed to know the amount of time and effort NRA officials have put into erection of the defense of general Johnson before the National Labor Relations Board against charges that he fired President Johnson for union activities.

They decided that this was a crucial case—that if Johnson, already unpopular with labor, were found guilty of union-busting tactics, organized labor might well rise up on its hind legs and point publicly with scorn and contempt.

Top-rank NRA attorneys were put on the case for weeks, after being informed this was perhaps NRA's most important fight to date.

The tiny NRA union was delighted with the fuss it had stirred up with Johnson's help.

BY RIPLEY

THE FATHER OF CHAMPAGNE—Father Dom Pierre Perignon (1640-1715), the Benedictine cellar master of the Abbey of Hautvillers, near Epernay, France, being in charge of the Rheims vineyard of the abbey, discovered the process of rendering the wine effervescent, and produced the first champagne. He also created the glass goblet in which champagne is drunk today. Withal he was an austere scholar endowed with a very refined taste. A monument was erected to Dom Pierre on the site of the ancient abbey, in the champagne country.

phone him and say his wife's been hurt in an auto accident. We'll show this guy . . .

Maybe that sort of thing isn't typical, but it's done. Sometimes there's a definite element of malice in practical joking, as in the case of the press agent who hadn't been able to collect his salary from a certain hotel manager who had engaged him. The publicity man, after brooding for weeks, sent a telegram to the executive: "Understand mailbox has broken out in your hotel. Shall I advise of the telegram?" . . . An employee of the telegraph company held the message and notified the department of health. Doctors, reinforced by police, descended on the place at put it under a quarantine that lasted three hours.

Liquor Cures

And sometimes practical jokes are funny, though cruel. Dipsomaniacs are ways suffer from Broadway's idea levity. While a circus was in town a platter-tipped Ubangi native was secreted in the hotel room of a theatrical agent who always reeled home drunk. The victim wound up in hospital and the W. C. T. U. would glad to know, hasn't touched a drop since . . .

Then there was the well-known author who had been on a ten-day spree in his suite on the fifteenth floor of a hotel. One morning he opened a bleary eye and saw an apparition. He shook his head, tried to open the eye and saw a policeman. The policeman was telling him that he had better get dressed because he was under arrest. He fled to the hall and there encountered several of his dear pals convulsed with laughter. They had spent getting the policeman and his horse up to the fifteenth floor on the freight elevator. The author returned to his room and downed three quick ones to steady his nerves.

Phone Joker

The telephone is a fine medium for practical joking. A press agent named Marc Lachmann likes to wait until 1 o'clock in the morning and then call a couple of dozen people. He's at a grand party, he tells each victim, and everybody is asking about good old So-and-So. So come over right away, and bring a pie. Yes, pie; cherry preferred. So a lot of people put on their clothes, go out to buy a pie, and take a taxi to a certain address. Once there, however, they find that there isn't any party that nobody ever heard of Lachmann and that nobody wants a cherry pie.

Dick Himber, orchestra leader, a curious fellow who likes to know what people think of him. One morning he had his secretary call every music publisher in town and announce that her employer had died unexpectedly that morning. Himber lined in on an extension wire, heard many of his business acquaintances express surprise and polite regret. It wasn't until they learned his little joke, however, that they learned what they really thought of him.

Lights of New York

By Helen Worden

NEW YORK.—They'll never grow up—these Broadway boys. They'll have their little jokes regardless of the initial trouble or the consequences. The wonder is that some of them have been allowed to grow up as far as they have.

I have watched fun-loving fellows "five the hot-foot" to unemployed actors who scarcely could afford to have a shoe scorched by a flaming party match. Oh, well, anything for a laugh! . . . If a person sits down in a cane-bottomed chair, take a cup of scalding tea and fling it upward

STRAUS RECALLS AMBULANCE AID

Diplomat Tells France To
'Remember' When Disputes Appear

PARIS, Sept. 1.—(P)—Ambassador
Jesse I. Straus of the United States suggested today that France remember, when relations become unpleasant, the aid the United States gave her in the World War.

He spoke at the unveiling of a tablet commemorating the activities of the wartime American volunteer ambulance service. The tablet is placed in the Lycee Pasteur at Neuilly, a Parisian suburb, which was the volunteer ambulance headquarters.

Ambassador Straus said the ambulance service was "one of many spontaneous American gestures which I trust our French friends will recall when, from time to time, we engage in negotiations which may lead to disagreeable disputes."

His speech was an answer to one by Louis Marin, the French minister of health, who caused the tablet to be erected and who is one of the strongest opponents of the payment of the war debt owed the United States.

It was just 20 years ago today, that the French government accepted the first ambulance of the service, which by the time of the armistice had carried 200,112 cases and lost 28 volunteer drivers, killed in service.

DARE CRATER'S DEATH FUMES TO RECOVER BODY

Daring death from the fumes that rise in the jagged crater of Mt. Hood, Oregon, rescuers here are shown as they pull up the body of Victor von Normann, 23, University of Washington Junior, who fell 200 feet into the chasm when he leaned too far over the edge while on a sight-seeing tour. Masked rescuers who descended into the death pit to recover the body were overcome by the fumes, but were resuscitated after being pulled back to the surface.

KITCHENS HOLDS 45-VOTE MARGIN

Decision In Arkansas
Congress Race Is Still Delayed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 1.—(P)—The seventh Arkansas district congressional race was little nearer a decision today than following the Democratic runoff primary last Tuesday in which Congressman Tillman B. Parks of Camden defeated Wade Kitchens of Marietta on the basis of unofficial returns.

Kitchens, former state representative and World war captain, today maintained a margin of 45 votes over Parks with official returns from nine counties and unofficial but complete returns from the two other counties in the district.

The winner of the race probably will remain in doubt at least until next week due to failure of Democratic central committees to make the official canvass of ballots yesterday in two counties of the 11 in the district.

The vote today stood at 14,897 for Kitchens compared with 14,852 for Parks. The incumbent claims majorities in the two counties not officially reported.

TEMPORARY WAGE AGREEMENT MADE

Mobile And Ohio Railroad And Workers Agree On Pay

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—A temporary wage agreement was signed today by the Mobile and Ohio railroad and employees' representatives, averting a strike of approximately 2,500 workers.

The agreement, effective until March 31, 1935, provides for gradual restoration of half of a 20 per cent pay cut, H. M. Van Sant, chairman of the employees' committee, said.

A 5 per cent wage restoration already made by the railroad will remain in effect until October 1, when an additional 2 1-2 per cent will be restored. This 7 1-2 per cent total restoration is to continue until January 1, 1935, when another 2 1-2 per cent is to be added, bringing the total to 10 per cent.

race for police juror from the tenth ward of Concordia parish subject to the Democratic primary to be held in January, 1935. The present police juror, F. L. Campbell, has stated he would not make the race if a good candidate would run for the office and the other potential candidates who have yet to announce are Messrs. Vanner Lipsey of New Era and T. H. Forman of Eva, La.

The United States dredge boat "Waterway" returned to Monterey last week and is dredging a deeper channel near the home of F. L. Campbell, police juror of Monterey. The rise in Black river caused by tor-rental downpours of rains the past week will aid the "Waterway" in keeping the river open for water transportation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sharp and children, Misses Francis and Peggy Jean Sharpe, are visitors in the home of Mrs. Sharpe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Forman and will return soon to their home at Golden Meadow, La., where Mr. Sharpe is employed in the oil fields.

bricklayers and typists. Half an hour later, finding the sensational address emblazoned on the front pages, he cynically comments, "That's advertising which money can't buy—and which the bar association can't bar." Nevertheless, one of his ardent admirers in the graduating class, ably portrayed by Jean Arthur, wins an appointment as his private secretary, and her first official act is to roundly berate Mr. Mitchell for his unethical conduct in criminal cases.

When Holt attempts to defend an obviously guilty kidnaper, Miss Arthur undertakes a bit of private sleuthing on her own, and compromises the lawyer into a more scrupulous attitude towards his work.

Fine, understanding, performances by the whole cast distinguish the film play. Among these supporting players are Shirley Grey, Arthur Hohl, Raymond Walburn, Sarah Padden, Donald Meek, Raymond Hatton and the Nat Pendleton. Direction is by Lambert Hillyer from an original screen play by Jo Swerling.

NEW GOLD BRICKS ARRIVE AT MINT

Seventy Million Dollars Worth Gleams In Denver Vault

DENVER, Sept. 1.—(P)—Seventy million dollars worth of shiny new gold bricks gleamed today in the vaults of the United States mint here.

Guarded by heavily-armed men, the treasure was safely stored away after it had arrived last night on a special train from San Francisco.

The gold is the first of a series of shipments which will shift about $2,000,000,000 of Uncle Sam's wealth from the Pacific coast mint to the Denver depository here.

Except for chasing away throngs of curious who crowded too close to the special train, the guards and mint employees took the gold from the station to the mint, about two miles distant, without incident.

Hauling the sacks of precious metal through the streets to the mint required several hours, ten armored trucks and the labor of a big squad of men in addition to the scores of guards who acted as escorts for the gold-laden carriers.

Each of the trucks was guarded by 18 men, armed with machine guns, revolvers and rifles.

As each sack arrived at the mint, Superintendent Mark A. Skinner checked its contents and signed the receipt. Each sack weighed 80 pounds and was worth about $35,000.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

Another great nation-wide political campaign is now in progress. Upon the National Congress which will convene next January will devolve the solution of problems of tremendous importance, and upon the combined wisdom of that Congress will depend the future welfare of all our people. Such interesting news comes to us about the new country club now being organized . . . The Lakeside Country club . . . Monroe society all stir about it . . . A committee not yet named, will be appointed to have charge of all social activities centering around the club, and the coming winter has every indication of being full of pleasurable affairs . . . It's even whispered that a swimming pool and tennis courts, are some of the proposed features of Lakeside Country club . . . The old Riverside club house will be completely renovated before it's name is changed . . .

Readers of these pages will welcome the return tomorrow of Miss Eve Bradford, who will again resume charge of the social section of the publication. Miss Bradford has been vacationing in California for the past month where she has enjoyed in lovely fashion the beauty and charm of the Pacific coast, visiting Los Angeles, Hollywood, San Francisco and other places of interest along the Western coast. Making part of the trip by air and returning by way of Denver, Miss Bradford will have many interesting things to tell her readers . . .

"It's a whole lot different . . . going to one of these backwoods dancers" soliloquized a weary young man, the morning after the Delta Beta Sigma Dance. "Girls don't ever forget anything. Girls that never dance with, left me stricken alone," he mourned. "None of us got stuck," he added "but we kept wondering all the time if we were going to be." . . . he meditated, he thoughtfully sipped his morning coffee . . .

Harry, small nephew of a prominent young matron of our city, was recently fascinated by the comforting purring noise made by the fam cat.

"What's he doing, Aunt Mary?" queried the youngster . . .

"He's purring," answered his aunt in absent minded manner . . . A day or two later peculiar noises issued from the living room where Uncle Jack was wont to take his nap . . . Harry investigated . . . No doubt about it . . . The noises issued from Uncle Jack's mouth!

Harry ran excitedly to the kitchen. "Aunt Mary!" he exclaimed "Uncle Jack's a-purring!"

Miss Boyce Leigh Sadler left this week for Memphis, Tenn., where she will enjoy a ten day visit with her aunt Mrs. H. H. Hennel before leaving for Lynchburg where she will matriculate at Randolph-Macon.

Friends of Mrs. Grace K. Potts were injured in an automobile accident and has since been confined to her bed at St. Francis sanitarium, where she is learning that her condition is much improved and she will be home in a few days.

Cook Book Published In 1834 Contains Unusual 'Receipts' And Remedies

An interesting cook book in possession of Mrs. Sam Allen of this city throws some unusual sidelights on cookery as it was known in bygone days. The title of this unusual volume is "Miss Leslie's new receipts for cooking" and "receipts tested and arranged by Miss Leslie in the year 1834" are contained in its pages.

A "receipt" for tansy pudding may or may not sound appetizing. It proves to be a toothsome confection of stale sponge cake, fresh spinach and a handful of tansy leaves.

Other "receipts" reveal the proper combination of ingredients for "red flummery," "farina panada," "terracotta pie," "calves foot jelly," "birds in a grove" and "thatched house pie."

Several pages are devoted to advice to travellers who are crossing the sea. Remedies for sea sickness are numerous and are concluded with the final remark that "If you find your sickness increasing, give up to it for a day or two; you will afterward feel much better for it."

Regarding the wearing apparel suitable for a sea voyage Miss Leslie comments that "no dress intended to be worn on a voyage should fasten behind as it is not always that a lady can procure the assistance of another to do this for her."

It further advises "to by all means take with you a wadded silk petticoat and a pair of slightly wadded inside silk sleeves to be tied in beneath your gown sleeves in chilly weather."

"The best sea stockings are those of unbleached cotton. No others are comfortable . . . gaiter boots and boots lined with fur are also very comfortable when once on."

Household hints are plentifully given. For instance . . . a half page is devoted to the explanation of how "to prevent a jug of molasses from running over" . . . and it must have been a real problem.

Sour unskimmed sour milk is recommended for improving the hair, also shampans of bean, beef marrow, as well as the well known yolk of an egg shampoo.

"Eye-stones" seem to have been favorite remedies for extracting "motes from the eye." They could be procured at all druggists.

Processes for making hoarhound candy for coughs or hoarseness, mustard plasters, and lavender compound are all carefully explained by Mrs. Leslie in her "New receipts for cooking." It's an interesting volume.

Higher Lines And Lower Heels Feature Footwear For The Fall And Winter

By Rita Ferris (Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS.—(AP)—Lines are creeping upward in new winter shoes for 1934-35. The low cut court pump and the strapped shoe have been thrust into a back seat by the largest designers, and models which inch higher and higher over the instep, approaching the styles worn in the days of the French revolution, are being shown. Even boots which cover the ankle bone have been designed.

Heels And Wooden Buckles

Other footnotes recalling the tempestuous days of the eighteenth century appear. Hocks instead of eyelets are used for the laces which fasten a number, and wide wooden buckles, enamelled to match the color of the shoe and studded with copper nail heads or colored stones, ornament others.

The favorite fall footwear for town as yet is the shoe which molds up over the instep as smoothly as a glove fits the hand. Some stop midway over that upward curve of the foot, others almost cover it. In order to keep a smooth unbroken line in front, a number lace on the side, while others fasten with a smart side strap arrangement.

Boots, extending all the way from the ankle bones to midcalf, are the latest excitement. Many designers are fashioning such models for real winter wear, although as yet they have not made their appearance.

'Happy Medium' In Heels

Heel heights are causing a small shoe designers' war. The low heel, which has gained popularity in America, is favored by a few designers, but the rest declare high heels make feet look smaller, and they refuse to lower their models drastically. The consensus appears to be a "happy medium" of somewhat lower heels, but no really flat designs.

Kid promises to be the favorite leather for utilitarian town wear, while suede and antelope are shown for afternoon shoes. Calf appears for sports. Many a model combines two leathers in one shoe. Suedes are worked with swirls of kid and kid with applications of antelope.

Black, as usual, is hailed as the favorite town color, while a warm redish brown, navy blue and dark gray promise to be popular with clothes in those colors. Dark green, designers say, also will be smart.

'YOUTHFUL'S' THE WORD FOR CO-ED PACKING FALL CAMPUS WARDROBE

Young and new are the clothes desired for college girls' wardrobes this fall. Fastenings and accessories are among the outstanding features of their design. Schiaparelli uses a nail to close the jacket of this gunmetal tweed jersey suit cut with a box-like jacket and finished with big pockets. The beret which goes with it is of gay Scotch plaid.

'Dawn Before Danger' By Anne W. Strawbridge Has A Quaint Charm All Its Own

A novel, so trite and old-fashioned as this one has a curious charm all its own. As it is possible, one would be fascinated that the author will devote in no way from the pattern? Will she draw just the moral which one anticipates from the first page; will she untangle her network of difficulties and arrive at a happy ending by a device as hackneyed as it is implausible? Miss Strawbridge, a newcomer, does precisely this. Both in style and content, "Dawn Before Danger" is flawlessly brutal.

Henry Keets, manager and part owner of some Pennsylvania coal mines, was one of those strong, silent, aggressive men to whom a career means everything. In his personal ambition was nicely blended with a desire to ameliorate the fortunes of his employees. His work came first with Henry, and always would. It was unfortunate, then, that he chose to marry a pretty, giddy young thing who knew, and cared, about little but horses and was blandly indifferent to his business problems.

Poor Mary had a hard time of it. Henry started to neglect her for his work before they were married a month, and no amount of pouting and pleading could make him more amenable. Worse, he began to seek again the society of a married woman, Hester, who had always been able to give him intellectual stimulus and companionship and who appreciated the importance of his career. They fell in love with one another—though why they hadn't done so before is something of a mystery—and when Hester's worthless husband providentially died, Henry was all for marrying her and divorcing Mary.

In a novel of this kind so sensible and obvious a solution is automatically outlawed. Hester, fearful that divorce might injure Henry, returns hastily from a mountain-climbing trip abroad (described irrelevantly but with fair success). Armed with sacrificial intentions she goes to see Mary, and though the latter has become so estranged from Henry that she is living apart from him in her mother's home, Hester at once convinces her (by means of

How We May Help Handicapped Children

The term exceptional children includes both the handicapped and gifted, or children who deviate from the average child to such an extent as to require special treatment or training in order to make the most of their possibilities. It includes: the cripples; the blind and the partially seeing; the deaf and the hard of hearing; the defective in speech; children of lowered vitality; the mentally retarded; children with behavior problems (the nervous, the emotionally unstable, the delinquent); and the gifted.—White House conference.

Use every opportunity to tell parents about preventive measures.—Many cases of children crippled at birth, such as the club foot and dislocated hip, can be helped—if only they are brought to the physician's attention immediately.

Take care of convalescent children!—Any disease in which fever is present may leave the child in such a condition that rheumatic fever may be the forerunner of heart affections. Encourage mothers of small children to take them to the Summer Round-Up—Early discovery of physical defects makes corrective treatment simpler. Older children, too, need careful physical examinations, especially when they are growing rapidly.

Study the child who is "not getting along" at school, instead of blaming him.—Has he had poor preparation in some subject? Do worries at home interfere with his progress? Are his eyes at fault? Is his hearing good? Is he so "different" in intelligence that he needs to be put in a special class? Find out!

Be slow to consider children "bad."—Much "badness" is the result of misunderstanding, of impulses running riot instead of being directed. A child who has been sent from home to home because "nobody could do anything with him" has "no problem" at all to the foster mother who understood his needs.

See that committees from your organization follow the progress in your state of legislation relating to the handicapped—Only by education of more and more people, and their devotion to the cause, can we hope to have children's needs recognized.

In a time like the present, making children's lives as satisfactory as possible from day to day, is the best insurance we can write for them against their future.—Is every child happily busy with something worthwhile? Is the crippled child having opportunities to do as much as he can for himself, thus avoiding the development of self pity and boredom? Is the mentally advanced child having variety in his play, or is he always hunched over a book, rather than learning to live with people?

Courage and self-confidence are habits built up as other habits are.—Only if we ourselves are courageous and give our children satisfying practice in fortitude, can we expect them to develop a sound philosophy of life for such times as these.

Health Round Up Of Children Necessary

Round-Up time! One visualizes cattle being rounded up for branding. Galloping horses. Cowboys. Lassoes. Dust. An exciting picture. But there is another kind of Round-Up. It has nothing to do with cattle. This round-up deals with health. Instead of cowboys, it employs skilled doctors and nurses. Instead of lassoes, anti-toxins and vaccines are used. It seeks to give every child a chance to be healthy.

While the health and care of the child is obviously the primary responsibility of his parents, when individual parents fail down on the job, parent-teacher associations do what they can to help the child before he enters school. Their main contribution is through the Summer Round-Up of the children, America's greatest child health project, promoted on a nation-wide scale by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

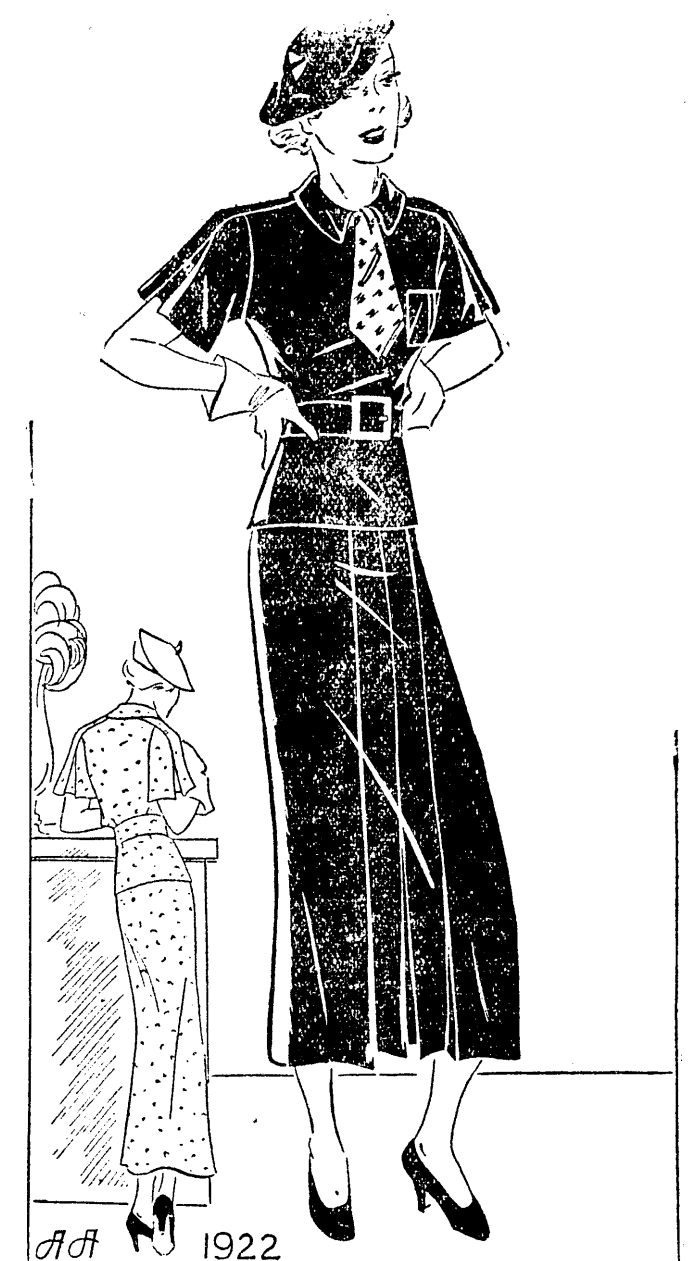

This is how the Summer Round-Up works: Every spring, a small committee of parents, usually mothers, appointed by the parent-teacher association, meets and makes plans to have the pre-school children in their community examined by a doctor and a nurse. Examinations are scheduled in cooperation with the principal of the school, school health officials, medical and dental societies, and other health agencies, and dates are set when parents may bring their children to the school for the Summer Round-Up examination. Then a notice is sent out to all parents in the school district.

Upon examination, if the child is found to be in perfect physical health, all well and good. But if he is suffering from any one of the numerous maladies which commonly afflict childhood, his parents are urged to take immediate steps to correct such defects during the summer, existing in cooperation with the family physician, if necessary, to prepare the child to enter school in the fall.

"Defects of posture, teeth, eyes, hearing, nose and throat are common in the early years of a child, and they all have a serious bearing on a child's progress in school. The child who enters school in good physical and mental condition can make his grades easily, while the child suffering from defects of hearing and vision, and frequent illness caused by remediable physical weaknesses, such as diseased adenoids and tonsils, is laboring under a handicap which it is impossible for him to overcome. A sick child cannot compete with a well one."

This fall, almost a hundred thousand children entering school for the first time this year, have had the benefit of Summer Round-Up health examinations conducted by parent-teacher associations. Unfortunately, not all children entering school this fall have had this attention to their health. A goodly percentage of the children examined in the Summer Round-Up will have had medical care during the summer to remedy physical defects discovered last spring. These healthy youngsters will unquestionably be able to distinguish themselves and make a better showing than children who enter school handicapped by poor hearing, poor vision, diseased tonsils, and other weaknesses.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

MAEL McELLOTT Copyright 1934 BY Mael McElloitt

CHAPTER XXV
"She's a very sick girl," the doctor said to the dark young man, braced against the dispirited wall of Mrs. Mooney's sitting room. "She ought to have a nurse... I don't know..."
"She can have a nurse," the dark young man stated coldly and with firmness. "Get one. Twenty-four hour duty?"

"I know a good girl. She worked under me on a case like this last winter," the gray, plump professional man told him. "You're her—brother?"

"Just a friend," said the dark young man. "I know her family. I only discovered last night we were living in the same house."

"Ah, I see," the doctor, drawing on his big driving gloves, eyed the younger man with interest. "You'll have the nurse come right over then?"

"Within an hour. May I use this telephone?"

In the dim, untidy room Boots slept in a stupor. Her skin burned with the raw flush of fever. She scarcely knew where she was when she awoke, except at dim intervals. In her dreams it seemed to her that she was in her own room at home with the thin, delicately darning curtains blowing at the wide windows and October roses blooming just beneath them. But when she came back to consciousness, which was only occasionally, she saw the outlines of the sagging painted bureau and the gray square of window beyond it. Trucks jolted over the cobblestones and urchins cried in the streets below and taxi horns honked, honked incessantly. Beyond, in the narrow streets edging the river, fog horns boomed with dreary regularity.

There was something she couldn't remember just now that troubled her. Something about a $10 bill and a tall stern faced young man at Lucy's. She had the feeling she had bled about it in her sleep, but maybe she was wrong. It was all dream-like. Even the cool hands of the girl in white, laid on her feverish brow and wrist, were the hands of a dream angel.

People came and went in this dream. Although Boots was unaware of it the small square room was scrupulously tidy now, with the tidiness of a hospital room. Clean scarf on the bureau. Clean patched spread twitched four-square over the thin blankets. Tumbler and spoon—everything shining. Tumbled clothes hung behind the screen out of sight.

On the morning of the sixth day the doctor, straightening his plump back, folding the stethoscope carefully and tucking it into his pocket, allowed himself a smile. Two, in fact. One for the nurse and another for the dark young man whose eyes had been searching his face.

"She'll do," he said, benignly. "She'll do very nicely."
Boots slept under their combined scrutiny. She looked thin. The fine bones of her small face stood out sharply in the rock-gray dimness of the room. A shaded bulb burned dimly over the table.

The dark young man followed the doctor out into the hall. "That was a close shave," the older man said affably, shrugging big shoulders into his coat. "She had a peculiarly virulent type..." He went on, discoursing learnedly of the habits and curiosities of influenza and the dark young man listened, nodding occasionally, unsmiling.

"Well, well, I'll look in tomorrow. She's coming along splendidly, my boy. Lucky girl to have such a friend standing by?" You could see he waited for, expected a burst of confidence but none was forthcoming so he went out briskly.

"Want anything child?"
"I—I have to send a telegram."
The nurse smiled and said in a soothing voice, "Later, perhaps. Just now you have nothing to do but to lie here and get well."
"How long have I been ill?"
"Nearly a week, dear. But you're all right now. You're splendid!"
Boots' eyes filled. She was splendid. But Russ, with his strong body, lay still in death. What was it the wire had said?

"Russell Lund killed in motorboat accident this afternoon. Wire instructions."
And she had fainted. She had fainted. Russ, finally and wholly. "My husband," she began faintly "he's..."
"We know, dear," the nurse said soothingly. "It's too sad, but your friend has seen to all of it. Everything was arranged."

What on earth did she mean? Boots began to cry, tears of utter weakness and despair, and the young nurse, tiptoeing to the doorway, beckoned to someone unseen. "I think there's someone waiting to see you," she said. The young man in the doorway was dark, blue-eyed. He had a fine drawn look about him.

Boots uttered a little cry. "Mr. Fenway!"
"I'll be right down the hall in the kitchen. You call me if you want me. Don't talk long and tire her," Miss Ryan warned in an undertone, slipping past him. And then Denis was in the sagging chair behind the bed; his thin, nervous long-fingered brown hand laid over her small white one.

"Yes, do you mind?"
Her eyes were closed now and two big tears slipped unheeded from beneath her lashes. Her voice was very faint.
"How—how did you happen to be here? Oh, I'm so terribly confused..."

He began to explain quickly and gently, in a low voice. He had got back to New York just a week ago, he said. His friends, whose apartment in Washington Square he expected to lease in their absence, were not ready to vacate it—not for at least 10 days. So he had come to Mrs. Mooney's, his old room, he amplified with a smile. He had lived and worked in that very room when he'd come to New York fresh from college. Everyone in Greenwich Village knew Mrs. Mooney...
"When you fainted Monday night Mrs. Mooney called me," he went on. "We saw the wire. I—everything has been done."
Russ was gone. She couldn't take it in. It wasn't true. But here was

Church bells awoke Boots from her deep slumbers. She opened her eyes reluctantly, drowsily as a child does. Sunday? Why, it couldn't be Sunday! She frowned, remembering. That gray Monday and the customer who had lost the money. Coming home in the rain to find that dreadful telegram...

"Oh, I must get up..." Her hand groped for the bedside lamp but she was startled to find it was already alight and a girl with red curls and a nurse's cap was smiling down at her.

He began to explain quickly and gently, in a low voice. He had got back to New York just a week ago, he said. His friends, whose apartment in Washington Square he expected to lease in their absence, were not ready to vacate it—not for at least 10 days. So he had come to Mrs. Mooney's, his old room, he amplified with a smile. He had lived and worked in that very room when he'd come to New York fresh from college. Everyone in Greenwich Village knew Mrs. Mooney...

"When you fainted Monday night Mrs. Mooney called me," he went on. "We saw the wire. I—everything has been done."
Russ was gone. She couldn't take it in. It wasn't true. But here was denise but none was forthcoming so he went out briskly.

Church bells awoke Boots from her deep slumbers. She opened her eyes reluctantly, drowsily as a child does. Sunday? Why, it couldn't be Sunday! She frowned, remembering. That gray Monday and the customer who had lost the money. Coming home in the rain to find that dreadful telegram...

"Oh, I must get up..." Her hand groped for the bedside lamp but she was startled to find it was already alight and a girl with red curls and a nurse's cap was smiling down at her.

"Want anything child?"
"I—I have to send a telegram."
The nurse smiled and said in a soothing voice, "Later, perhaps. Just now you have nothing to do but to lie here and get well."

"How long have I been ill?"
"Nearly a week, dear. But you're all right now. You're splendid!"
Boots' eyes filled. She was splendid. But Russ, with his strong body, lay still in death. What was it the wire had said?

"Russell Lund killed in motorboat accident this afternoon. Wire instructions."
And she had fainted. She had fainted. Russ, finally and wholly. "My husband," she began faintly "he's..."
"We know, dear," the nurse said soothingly. "It's too sad, but your friend has seen to all of it. Everything was arranged."

What on earth did she mean? Boots began to cry, tears of utter weakness and despair, and the young nurse, tiptoeing to the doorway, beckoned to someone unseen. "I think there's someone waiting to see you," she said. The young man in the doorway was dark, blue-eyed. He had a fine drawn look about him.

Boots uttered a little cry. "Mr. Fenway!"
"I'll be right down the hall in the kitchen. You call me if you want me. Don't talk long and tire her," Miss Ryan warned in an undertone, slipping past him. And then Denis was in the sagging chair behind the bed; his thin, nervous long-fingered brown hand laid over her small white one.

"Yes, do you mind?"
Her eyes were closed now and two big tears slipped unheeded from beneath her lashes. Her voice was very faint.
"How—how did you happen to be here? Oh, I'm so terribly confused..."

He began to explain quickly and gently, in a low voice. He had got back to New York just a week ago, he said. His friends, whose apartment in Washington Square he expected to lease in their absence, were not ready to vacate it—not for at least 10 days. DODGE CARS ARE DOUBLE CHECKED

Power Plant Balancing Machine Used To Assure Efficiency

There is an unusual contrivance which demonstrates the extraordinary care which motor car engineering gives to the smooth running of engines, according to the Monroe Automobile and Supply company.

It is a power plant balancing machine used by Dodge Brothers corporation in super-checking, in a fully assembled engine and under conditions of actual operation, the balance of all rotating parts of the power plant.

The power plant balancing machine is an extra control, after assembly, of the various balance tests that have been made of the individual units during their manufacture. In the course of production, components such as crankshafts, camshafts, flywheels, impulse neutralizers, pump parts and others are checked for static and dynamic balance before they are routed toward the assembly line.

The test verifies the final balance of all these pre-balanced parts, after assembly, under service and operating conditions. The machine not only reveals the rarely encountered condition of assembled unbalance, but tells the part and the spot at which balance adjustment is to be made.

The process by which all this information is obtained sounds very complicated and calls for the use of electric armatures, calibrating means, neon lights and magnifying gauges.

Two men, one manipulating the engine, the other peering with the earnestness of a keyhole eavesdropper through a hole in the square panel, conduct the scientific investigation that assures proper balance for each and every Dodge passenger car and truck engine.

NURSES PLEASED WITH NEW PLAN

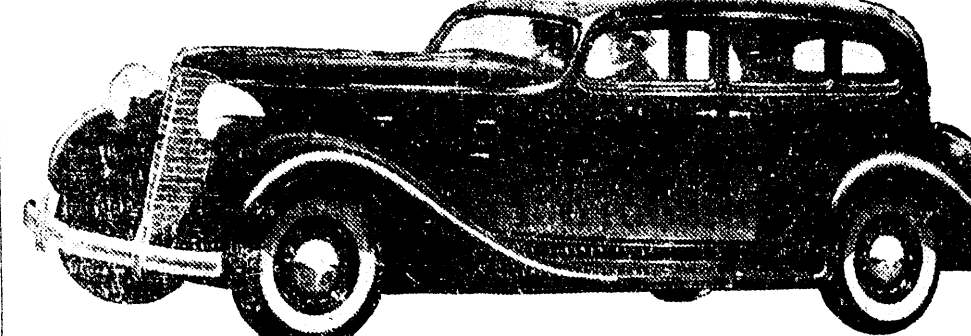

Eight-Hour Day Adopted May 1 Proves Highly Satisfactory

The eight-hour day plan adopted May 1 by the Nurses' Central registry of Monroe has proved highly satisfactory, those connected with the organization reported yesterday.

During the four months the new plan has been in operation 30 nurses who otherwise would have been unemployed have been given work, it was stated.

"The beauty of the plan," said Mrs. H. T. Goodwin, registrar, "is that it costs the patient no more and the nurses working on an eight-hour shift are far better able to do their work well than when they were under the old 12-hour plan."

LAFAYETTE AT BENOIT-NASH SHOWROOM

The LaFayette, newest addition to the low-priced automobile field, which captured the spotlight at the New York automobile show as "the car with the jeweled movement." The new car is an L-head six, built and regularly by Nash as a companion to its regular line of Nash sixes and eights. It takes its name from the fine car field—the deluxe Nash-built LaFayette of a decade ago and from this field also it has taken an array of features not usually found in cars of its price class. It is these which, like the jewels in a watch, insure quiet, smooth, efficient operation and long life and give the LaFayette its "jeweled movement" designation.

The new car definitely lives up to the pre-appearance gossip concerning it. It is a big car for its class in more than simply added length of wheel base, and the full "slip-stream" design of its composite steel and hardwood body presents the most modern conception of fleet motor car grace and beauty. Interior appointments are in keeping with its outward smartness.

The LaFayette is entirely devoid of "gadgets" and "trick features," production expense according to its makers having been concentrated in building into it size, safety, mechanical efficiency and all-around "huskiness" which would insure long trouble-free miles of comfortable motoring. It does, however, incorporate all the newest accepted principles of mechanical and body construction including as regular equipment patented "air-vent" draftless ventilation which overcomes the wind noises and blind spots associated with some ventilating devices and, as optional equipment, independently sprung front wheel suspension which permits front wheels to lift independently when striking road obstacles.

The LaFayette is offered on a 113 inch chassis in five body styles. The four-door, five passenger sedan is illustrated above.

Buick Continues To Outstrip Sales Mark

FLINT, Mich., Sept. 1.—(Special)—In the first seven and one-half months of this year the domestic dealer organization of the Buick Motor company has sold more new cars than were sold in all of 1933. In the same period export sales have outstripped those of last year in the ratio of four to one.

These evidences of improvement were disclosed today by W. F. Hufstader, Buick general sales manager, who announced that last year's total of 43,274 domestic retail sales was passed during the second 10-day period of August.

"August 16 was the red letter day," he said. "Domestic sales to date are 43,561, nearly 300 more Buicks than were sold in all of last year, and the combined domestic and export sales of 49,353 exceeds the total for all of 1933 by more than 4,500 cars."

Export sales to date, he said, are 6,392 as compared with 1,636 in the corresponding period last year and with 2,052 for the entire year 1933.

Fire Insurance Rates Show A Steady Descent

The stock fire insurance industry takes justifiable pride in the fact that its rates have been steadily descending during many years past, even while all costs were rising and when it was consistently improving its services to the public. However, spokesmen for the industry warn against attempts to force rates down too fast, according to the Seymour agency.

The greatest assets a fire insurance company can have are stability, safety, permanence. Those are what the policyholder buys when he obtains a policy. No sensible man would imperil these assets at a saving of a few cents on the hundred dollars of risk. And it is a fact that the stock fire insurance industry has not been able to generally earn fair underwriting profit for a long time. Its main return has come from its investments, not from the operation of the business of underwriting.

Stock fire insurance has a magnificent record. It will make further attempts to reduce rates, and citizens can aid by helping to prevent fires in the long run. Premium rates are determined by the fire loss in the community. But uneconomic rate decreases, which arbitrarily force companies to do business at an operating loss, are inimical to the public interest.

PONTIAC GIVEN STRENUOUS TEST

Unusual Demonstration On Proving Ground In California

MUROC LAKE, Calif., Sept. 1.—(Special)—A new high was set in motor car demonstrating here today when 260 members of the Pontiac organization and 32 newspapermen from all parts of southern California participated in a field day devoted to testing of speed, economy and riding ease on the dry bed of this famous proving ground.

Preparations made several days in advance by a crew sent out to this desert lake from Los Angeles 110 miles away included laying out a two-mile straight-away speedway, a five mile economy course and a 200-yard knee-action track. Holes ranging from six to twelve inches in depth were dug in the knee action course.

A cook tent and large mess tent were set up at the edge of the old lake bed.

All members took part in the three tests. Twelve stock cars were used in 85 speed dashes across the lake the cars ranged in speed from an average of 85 to 93 miles and hour. Economy tests which were conducted at from 30 to 45 miles and hour showed from 19 to 24 miles per gallon.

The ride test over the 200-yard course was a comparison between a 1933 model car and a new 1934 Pontiac with knee action. The course was so rough that it was difficult to remain in the seat of the older model even at five miles and hour speed.

Questioned after a collision on a downtown Kansas City street, a motorcycleist told police there were so many bright advertising signs at the intersection that he could not distinguish the traffic light from them.

QUALITY RUBBER FOR U. S. TIRES

Forty-Nine Million Pounds Produced For Manufacture Of Tire

Forty-nine million pounds of rubber, an amount three times greater than that produced by all other American rubber companies combined, was produced by the U. S. Rubber company on its plantations in Sumatra and Malaya last year. The plantations cover 135,000 acres, of which 99,000 are planted and 83,000 are idle.

In leading the world in the scientific culture of rubber on plantations, the U. S. Rubber company recognizes that without plantations there would be no automobile industry such as we have today, for there is no satisfactory substitute for rubber in the pneumatic tire.

Industrially, the growing of rubber is the most important farming project in the tropical zone. It is also the most painstaking one. It requires foresters to study trees, soil experts to study land, engineers to solve drainage problems, and chemists to delve into the mysteries of latex, the milk from which rubber is derived.

But all the work—clearing of jungles, removing stumps, draining land, breaking ground, growing seedlings from selected seeds, budding, grafting, transplanting and carefully tending young plants, building roads, railways, wharves, storage tanks and structures to house power plants, equipment and employees in a wild, tropical country—is more than worth while. For it places the manufacture in the advantageous position of controlling quality of the product from its very beginning.

This is vitally important in the manufacture of tires because the lives of millions of people depend each day on tire quality. Without quality in the raw material it is impossible to build dependable tires, no matter how carefully they may be engineered.

The U. S. Rubber company is fortunately situated in regard to control of all materials and manufacturing processes. In addition to plantations, it operates its own chemical plants, cotton mills, research laboratories, and manufacturing plants. As a result of this comprehensive ownership, it endows every tire it builds with the highest possible quality.

The Monroe Automobile and Supply company is the local dealer for U. S. tires.

TIGERS RALLY IN 11TH TO BEAT INDIANS, 6 TO 4

DETROIT GAINS

Eight Hits In Long
Duel With Tribe

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Tigers came from behind again today, tying the score in the eighth inning, then hammered across two more runs in the eleventh to defeat the Indians 6 to 4 in the second game of their series.

Marvin Owen, Detroit's star third baseman, drove in the winning run when he smacked Willis Hudlin's delivery for a double to right center.

Tommy Bridges

The Tigers trailed from the third inning, when Earl Averill belted his 23rd home run with one aboard, until the eighth. Then Gerald Walker bounced a single off Pitcher Oral Hildebrand's leg, stole second and scored the tying run on Joe White's single.

In the eleventh Charley Gehring opened with a single, Bill Rogell got to first and Gehring to second when Moe Berg fumbled Rogell's tap in front of the plate and Hank Greenberg drove a pass to beat the sacks and gave the way for Owen's winning clutch. The Indians made a threat that was halted partly by a freak play in the same inning.

Averill sent a long drive to center and White tried a one-hand catch. The ball bounced off his glove and Walker snatched it before it hit the ground to make the putout. Right after that Hal Trosky doubled, but the next two men went out.

Tommy Bridges went the full route for the Tigers, giving a run in the second to tie the score after Detroit tallied in the first, two more on Averill's homer and one in the sixth before Detroit started its serious scoring. Over the long route he allowed eight hits, gave no walks and struck out seven.

Laffoon Wins Hershey
Invitation Golf Crown

HERSHEY, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Ky Laffoon, wiry Denver pro, today added the Hershey invitation golf championship to his Canadian open title by turning in a 72-hole score of 286, a new course and tournament record for the distance.

Shattering a par on each of his four rounds, the fast-passing westerner had a five-stroke lead on his nearest rivals—Ed Dudley, Ryder cup player, and Joe Turnesa, Bayshore, L. 1, ace—at the end of the 72 holes. Dudley jumped from fourth place, and Turnesa from sixth in the last 18 holes to post 291's for the two-day tournament.

Laffoon gave the course a terrific beating in gaining the title which Dudley held a year ago. Yesterday he stroked out rounds of 71 and 72 on the par-73 layout, and this afternoon he added another 71 to the 72 he chalked up in this morning's 18.

Pittsburgh Purchases
Birmingham Receiver

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced tonight the acquisition of Catcher Aubrey Epps from the Birmingham team of the Southern association.

The 21-year-old backstop is playing his third season and was acquired for an unannounced amount of cash on the unqualified recommendation of Carleton Molesworth, veteran scout and former minor league manager.

Epps weighs 170 pounds, is five feet, ten inches tall, bats and throws right-hand and has a batting average of .307. He has been used part of the season as an outfielder.

The new Pirate will complete the season with Birmingham and report next March at the Pirates' spring training camp in San Bernardino, Cal.

Big Six League Teams To Meet At Winnsboro TodayCranford For Tallulah And Demaron For Winnsboro
Are Hurlers

The battle for the Big Six league championship will be resumed at Winnsboro today, with Tallulah on the short end of a 2-1 count in games won. Today's game will start at 3 o'clock.

Manager George Berry of Tallulah is expected to send Anse Cranford, veteran right-hander, to the mound for the Indians in an effort to even the series. Cranford defeated the Winnsboro club, 3 to 1, in Tallulah last Sunday for the Indians' only victory.

Cranford will be opposed by Joe Demaron, the hurler who lost last Sunday. Despite the fact that Demaron was bested in his duel with Cranford, Manager Eckhardt said last night that he thought the Winnsboro club would give the little right-hander more runs to work on today. Demaron was the ace of the Winnsboro staff during the regular season and may turn the tables on Cranford today. He hurled a good game last Sunday but the Winnsboro batters were just unable to solve Cranford's slams.

Wednesday Winnsboro won, 17 to 3, and again Thursday they trimmed the Indians, 8 to 2.

The same line-ups which took the field in the Thursday game will start today. They are as follows:
Tallulah—Farrell, 1b; Phelps, ss; Tucker, cf; Rushing, 3b; Sutherland, rf; D. Hazel, lf; H. Hazel, 2b, and Berry, c.
Winnsboro—Dyess, 2b; Spencer, ss; Tatum, 1b; Rawlins, lf; Hackney, 3b; Blair, rf; Womack, cf; and Polvogt, c.
According to word from Winnsboro, one of the largest crowds ever to attend a game there will be on hand today.

The Big Six league is seeking a series with the winner of the Evangeline league play-off and it is probable that the Big Six winner will meet either Opelousas or Lafayette. Word already has been received that Opelousas, first half winner, is willing to play a seven-game series if they win the Evangeline championship.

ENGINEERS PLAY
FAIRBANKS TODAYFifth Game Of Ouachita
Valley Playoff Slated
At Fairbanks

With Fairbanks needing but one more victory to win the Ouachita Valley league championship, the play-off series with Sterling will be resumed at Fairbanks today. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

All four of the games so far have been decided by one run. Sterling won its first victory last Wednesday by winning, 1 to 0.

The hurlers for today's game have not been announced. However, it is thought that "Red" Ward, the slim right-hander who hasn't lost a game this year, will be on the mound for Fairbanks, and Ford will be doing the pitching for Sterling. Fairbanks has Kyle and Malone in reserve, and Sterling may call on "Lefty" Ward or Fontenot. There is a possibility that still the Little Louisiana Tech ace who injured his arm in the first game of the playoff, may see some action for Sterling.

If Sterling wins today, the series will continue with a game at Sterling Wednesday.

Umpires for today's game will be Swanson and Young.

A large crowd is expected to pack the Fairbanks park to see the two clubs renew their rivalry.

Chambliss To Assist Jack
Meagher At Alabama Poly

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 1.—(AP)—"Boots" Chambliss, alternate captain and ace guard on last year's Auburn gridiron team, today was appointed assistant football coach at Alabama Polytechnic institute.

The announcement was made by Coach Jack Meagher on the eve of regular training, which begins Monday for the Plainsmen.

Chambliss played in all games last year, being absent from the Auburn lineup only five minutes during the season. He was mentioned by several sports writers on all-southern selections.

His home is in Montgomery, Ala.

Yanks And Red Sox Seek To Sign Junior Players

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox were reported in a race today to sign star players of the Cumberland, Md., team, which captured the national American Legion junior baseball championship in a three-game series against New Orleans.

According to the manager of the Cumberland team, the Red Sox offered contracts to Pitchers Ronald Triplett and Phil Fleming, Third Baseman George Kraft and Outfielders Wally Hoewat and Charlie Gilbert before the final championship series here. Meanwhile the Yankees drew a promise from the players to wait until they could bid for their services.

L. S. U. GRIDMEN
REPORT MONDAYJones Faces Problem In Replacing Torrance,
Kent And Lobdell

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 1.—(Special)—Labor Day will mark the beginning of three and a half months of labor for the members of the Louisiana State varsity football squad. Early tomorrow morning Capt. Lawrence (Biff) Jones will assemble his 40-odd candidates for the first workout and two practice sessions will be held daily until school opens late this month.

The candidates who were notified to report for practice are all expected to arrive over the week-end and Captain Jones plans to lose no time in getting down to serious work.

The Bengals will open their season on Sept. 29 against Rice Institute at Houston, Tex. The Ochs will be strengthened by the return of a half-dozen of their 1932 stars who were ineligible last fall.

Prospects on the whole are rather bright at L. S. U. despite the loss of five regulars from the undefeated 1933 team and three other lettermen. Coach Jones faces four major problems.

No. 1. Replacing Jack Torrance 285-pound all-south tackle.

No. 2. Replacing John Kent, center, who was voted the "most valuable player" last year.

No. 3. Replacing Bill Lobdell, quarterback.

No. 4. Developing reserve material sufficient to carry the Bengals through their strenuous 11-game schedule.

The return of 13 lettermen from last year, a group of ambitious sophomores and reserves will tend to make Captain Jones' problems easier to solve. The head man at Tigerville is well supplied with capable backs and terminals, but faces the difficult task of developing centers, guards and tackles.

Garland Pickett and Shelby Calhoun, both reserves, will light it out for Torrance's old position, while Justin Rukas will again take care of the other tackle post.

Buck Brown, regular, and Butch Holyston, reserve, are in line for first-string guard berths. Finding good reserves will be difficult.

Lloyd Stovall, senior, and Stewart, sophomore, are the outstanding candidates for the pivot position.

Walter Sullivan, senior halfback, has the inside rail in the race for Lobdell's quarterback job, while Joe Lawrie, 1933 reserve, will see plenty of service. Junior Bowman, a speedy little veteran of two seasons, is also available.

After a stormy first inning in which the Chicks got to Bryant for a run and the Pelicans stormed Jimmy Henry for four runs, Billy Bayne, southpaw, took the hill for Memphis and stuck to his guns in a hard fought game that lasted ten innings and was featured by a pitching duel between Bayne and Bryant.

GREENVILLE EVENS
EAST DIXIE SERIESBuckshots Rally In Eighth And Ninth To Beat Jackson, 4-3

GREENVILLE, Miss., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Putting two runs across in the ninth frame, the Greenville Buckshots evened the East Dixie league playoff with two victories each by defeating Jackson's Senators today 4 to 3 before a huge crowd.

Manager Frank Brazill presented a changed line up from that which dropped the tilt yesterday to Jackson. The Buckshot boss went to first himself to take the place of the injured Glenn Bolton, league leading slugger. Harper was brought in from center field to second base. Ligon was returned to left field with Horn in center and Hitt in right.

Jackson scored in the third to hold a one to nothing lead for seven innings. The initial marker was scored as O'Neill singled to center, went to second on McDonald's sacrifice, took third on Stewart's wild pitch and scored when he worked a double steal with McDonalds who had walked.

The Senators forged further in the lead in the eighth by scoring twice. With two out McDonalds singled to right. Ferrell was hit by a pitched ball. Brown walked, filling the bases. On a hit and run play, Bobo singled to left and McDonalds and Ferrell counted.

Greenville counted two in the eighth when Simmons opened with a single to left field. Vines, hitting for Stewart, walked. Harper fled out to Brown. Scharein hit to McDonald who threw wide to Vines in an attempt to get Vines at second. Simmons scored and Vines went to third. Horn was thrown out by Ferrell and Vines scored on the play.

The winning runs were counted in the ninth. Manager Brazill singled to right. Bruce Hitt sacrificed him to second. Ricks pumped a single into left field, which sent Brazill to third and resulted in removal of McDonald from the mound. Simmons hit to Copeland who relieved McDonald. Copeland errored and Brazill scored the tying run and Hicks went to third and Simmons to second.

Harper was walked and Scharein looked over four wide ones and stroled, forcing in Ricks with the winning run. More than two thousand fans jammed Recreation park for the fourth game.

Tomorrow's likely pitchers are L. B. Jones for Jackson and Danaway for Tubbs for Greenville in the fifth game of the series.

KENTUCKY RACE TRACKS
Must Pay A Sales Tax

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 1.—(AP)—A ruling that race tracks in Kentucky must pay the three per cent gross sales tax as well as the daily license tax was issued today by Attorney General Bailey P. Wootton.

Under an act passed in 1920 the Churchill Downs track, Louisville, and the Latonia track, near Cincinnati, pay the state $2,500 each day of their meets and the Lexington and Dade Park tracks each pay $500 a day. The American Turf association recently took the position that the sales tax enacted this year supplanted the daily license tax, but Wootton held it did not. The state tax commission announced today the tracks must pay the sales tax on admissions and on their 10 per cent take-out of the parimutuel betting.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals broke the second place tie with the Chicago Cubs today by winning the second game of the series, 7 to 1. The league leading Giants also won today.

Bill Hallahan shut out the Chicago Cubs until the ninth, while the Cardinals took advantage of an error by Augie Galan with the bases filled and two out in the second inning to pile up four unearned runs.

Jimmy Collins and Bill Delaney rattled Hallahan's working margin with homers off Bill Lee, Cub starter, in the third.

GIANTS SHADE DODGERS
BROOKLYN, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Giants continued their parade toward the pennant today but it was a rather struggling march that led them to their second straight victory over the Dodgers, 4 to 3.

After piling up a good lead by the home run route while Hal Schumacher pitched two-hit ball over the first seven innings, the Terry men barely outlasted Brooklyn rallies in the last two innings to gain the decision. Schumacher went the route to get his 20th victory of the season against six safeties.

Johnny Vergez and Joe Moore clouted homers.

INDIAN GRID SQUAD REPORTS TO MALONE MONDAY

LARGE SQUAD IS EXPECTED WHEN PRACTICE STARTS

Several Former High School Stars To Play At Local College

Some 40 football players who are seeking berths on Coach Jim Malone's new Indian grid squad will report to the new mentor Monday to receive equipment and preliminary instructions for the start of the annual fall campaign.

Coach Malone will take over his active duties Monday and will remain at the college all day. He will start issuing uniforms at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The real work won't start until Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock. The players will be housed at the college and they will take their meals in the cafeteria. Coach Malone has mapped out a program of intensive conditioning for the strenuous schedule which the Indians face this season.

Prospects are bright for a husky squad. A number of former high school stars of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas will be numbered among the candidates who will report this week. The team undoubtedly will be the best ever put on the field by the local junior college.

Coach Malone went to Baton Rouge yesterday but he will return late today. Last Thursday he visited the university and brought back the equipment which will be used by the local squad this year.

Malone said last night that he didn't want to "tell all" about the boys he has coming in, but he did name some of them. One is Louis Sutherland, former high school track and football star of Meridian, Miss. L. S. U. wanted Sutherland last year for the Tiger track team but the Meridian ace decided to go to Indiana U. However, he didn't go out for track, so he'll be eligible for the L. S. U. line.

Another squad member next spring, after he spends one semester at the local school, Sutherland is a back. He weighs 195 pounds and Malone says he'll be the fastest football player in the south. L. S. U. is counting on him for the 220 in varsity track next spring.

Frank Bono, of Lake Charles, well known here for his boxing ability, is another grid candidate who will report here. Charles Spiller, center on Lake Charles' 1932 state championship eleven, will accompany Bono here.

Others who will report are Kenneth Day, quarterback from Baton Rouge high school; Henderson Cagle, six foot, two inch, 170-pound center from El Dorado, Ark.; Boyd Arnold, 190 pound end from Camden, Ark.; Dennis Sanford, 210 pound guard from Reform, Ala.; and John Hoffpauier, six foot, four inch center from Catholic high at Lake Charles.

Several local boys also are expected to join the Indian squad, Malone said. John Robinson and Ivin Causey, line men from Neville high school, were two who were mentioned by the Indian mentor.

Malone said the practice field is in perfect condition and everything will be in readiness for the starting of actual work Tuesday morning.

Geisler Named Assistant Louisiana College Coach

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 1.—(P)—The Louisiana college coaching staff was increased to five today with the signing of Paul Geisler, Associated Press All-American end last fall at Centenary college, as assistant coach.

Harold (Shorty) Oslin Centenary college halfback last fall, who was given honorable mention in the Associated Press selections, will coach the backfield.

Kite Cadwell and Dalton Faircloth will be Head Coach Henry Walden's other assistants. Geisler and Oslin are here and practice will begin Monday.

Following completion of the finals Monday afternoon, the prizes will be awarded at the clubhouse by H. K. Touchstone, president of the Riverside club.

BATTING LEADERS

(By Associated Press) Charley Gehring fanned his batting average yesterday while the other leaders were having a bad day and moved into third place in the big six as a result. Gehring hit four times in six trips to the plate, adding four points to his average. His American League rivals, Lou Gehrig and Heinie Manush, each hit once in four tries, losing one point apiece, while Mel Ott and Bill Terry of the Giants each lost two points. Terry didn't get a hit in three tries while Ott hit one out of five. Paul Waner, the leader, was idle.

WANER, GEHRIG LEAD IN HITTING

Terry Drops In National League And Manush Skids In American

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(P)—Both major leagues found new batting leaders during the past week as Paul Waner of Pittsburgh and Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees forged to the front.

All Waner had to do was to hold his own to pick up a ten-point lead over Bill Terry of the New York Giants, former National league leader. Waner lifted his average one point to .367 while Terry dropped 12 to .357.

Gehrig moved up from fourth place among American league leaders to oust Heinie Manush of Washington from the top place he had held for many weeks. Gehrig gained eight points to .364 while Manush dropped to .358.

The first ten batsmen in each major league follow:

A'S RALLY TO WIN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—(P)—Jimmy Fox's ninth inning home run with one on base gave the Athletics an 8 to 7 victory over the Boston Red Sox today.

The homer, the 39th of the season for Fox, was hit off the pitching of his former teammate, Lefty Grove, who had relieved Jimmy "Sh."

Eric McNair hit his fourteenth homer in the sixth inning.

NEW NATS STOP YANKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(P)—Wally Stewart, aided by the fine fielding and timely hitting of his teammates, pitched Washington to a 5 to 1 victory over the Yankees today.

The Yanks made ten hits off Stewart's delivery but Babe Ruth's 20th homer of the season was their only score. It was the Babe's first circuit swat since Aug. 11 and came with two out in the first inning.

CENTENARY SEES BRIGHT PROSPECTS

Despite Loss Of Last Year's Stars, Grid Team Is Optimistic

SHREVEPORT, Sept. 1.—(Special)—Enthusiasm radiated by upward of a dozen early Centenary football birds may be a bad omen for any or all of the dozen pigskin enemies of the Gents who appear on this year's schedule.

Although the practice season does not start until Sept. 8, when Coaches Parker and Renfro will whistle the athletes out of their summer hiding places, the vanguard that is already here to put in a few informal practice ticks before the heavy work begins, simply oozes optimism from every pore.

And by remote control—through the medium of letters from athletes living at near and distant points—Parker has learned that characteristic Centenary spirit will predominate in the gridiron going-ons regardless of the outcome of the campaign that will be waged to duplicate the success of their two predecessors who played through 21 games in two seasons without all defeat.

Instead of loafing until Parker and his associate sound the call to mole-skin arms, everyone of the athletes who has shown up has immediately requested work and lots of it. Some have been set to the task of whisking the whiskers from the football field; others are engaged in prosaic ditch-digging chores, while still others are working in nearby oil plants and oil fields and at tasks intended to toughen their bodies for another one of those suicide schedules Centenary customarily plays.

"From what I have seen of the spirit of the early arrivals," Coach Parker commented, "it is going to be as fine as it ever was. The players are aware of the terrific loss of seasoned, experienced man-power, just as the coaches are, but that has not discouraged them a particle; they're football hungry, literally rarin' to go and are looking over such misfortunes as we have suffered in the loss of 12 lettermen, and are looking to another fine season."

Captain Buddy Parker, realizing the responsibilities that go with being the field leader, already has himself in such shape that he could play a half right now, if it has to be done.

Both coaches have recently returned from coaching schools where they got all the low down on what's up, equipment awaits the athletes in their lockers, and everything is ship shape, awaiting the September 8 start.

Because the Gents will have only ten days to tune up for their first game, the practice is going to be of the most intensive sort, and it will be the athletes' hard luck if the weather is so hot then as it is now. The Gents open their season September 19 against Louisiana College at Pineville, and on September 22, three days later, they take on Louisiana State Normal in their first home game.

Another holiday attraction will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the municipal auditorium in the form of an old-fashioned and comical bathing revue. Some of the types of bathing suits which graced bathers in the days when conservatism was the rule rather than the exception are expected to be displayed. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the oldest and the most comical suits.

Other features at the auditorium will be swimming and fancy diving contests.

The majority of the business establishments in the Twin Cities will be closed for the day in order to allow employees to enjoy the attractions of the holiday.

Hundreds of persons are expected to spend the day on the creeks, lakes and other streams fishing and picnicking.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(P)—Business in the stock market dropped to its lowest level in years today as the majority of traders deserted the boardrooms for an extended Labor Day holiday. Prices, as a whole, were trendless, although there were scattered weak and firm spots. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated only 110,000 shares.

The few professionals who appeared in the commission houses bought and sold listlessly. Floor members accepted orders for most of the transactions that were recorded. The labor situation, political rumblings and industrial doubts seemed to thoroughly chill speculative enthusiasm.

Grains were in about the same condition as equities. The major cereals, at noon, were idling in a narrow range. Bonds were as listless as stocks, with quotations only moderately mixed. The cotton exchange was closed. The British pound steadied in foreign exchange dealings after its recent sharp recession.

Union Pacific and Johns-Manville were off a each. Simmons Co. was in supply at a decline of nearly 2. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Du Pont, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, Chrysler, National Distillers, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Santa Fe, Howe Sound, N. Y. Central and many others were unchanged to fractionally higher or lower.

While the financial sector still held faint hopes that the big strike, scheduled to start at 11:30 o'clock tonight, would be averted by last-minute governmental intervention, the distribution of the probable walk-out were being considered by market analysts from all angles.

Should the strike be settled in a comparatively short time, it was not believed a great deal of damage would be done. It was recalled that many of the textile mills are far ahead in production and could afford to shut down for a space. It was thought that any prolonged tie-up, however, might have a pronounced effect in retarding fall trade recovery.

Idleness of the mills, it was pointed out, could cause cotton and corn to suffer from a lack of normal cash demand. Corn is used extensively by textile manufacturers in the form of starch. Moreover, it was feared, a protracted strike would likely lead to unrest in other industries.

NRA'S SQUABBLE WITH BALTIMORE FIRM IS SETTLED

of the controversy was not immediately disclosed.

After the Greif company had taken the case to court and obtained a temporary injunction against NRA, the justice department started negotiations for a settlement and asked Leon Henderson, chief of NRA's research and planning division, to conduct an independent investigation.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(P)—Grain prices averaged lower early today on reports of good rains in many sections of the United States and Canada.

Opening 5-8 lower to 1-8 higher. December new 1.03 3-8-1-2, wheat later held fairly near the initial range. Corn started unchanged to 3-8 down. December new 79 1-2-3-4 and later was fairly steady.

Wheat closed 1-8 down to 5-8 up. September deliveries showing the greatest strength on the rally. September new finished at $1.02 1-2-5-8. December new at $1.03 1-2-5-8, and May at $1.04 7-8-1-03.

Corn was unchanged to 3-8 up. December contracts, old and new, at 80 to 80 1-8 cents. Oats were 1-8 lower to 1-8 higher, rye was 1-4 off to 1-4 up and barley was unchanged to 1-4 lower. Provisions were about steady.

Henderson also agreed that the new system should become effective as of June 9, 1934, as requested by Leonard Weinberg, counsel for the Greif company. This agreement was made, NRA said, because Henderson found that "it properly compensates the Greif employees."

The nub of the wage controversy centered in section 2-b of the clothing code which provided that wages between the $14.40 minimum and the $30 a week classification should be kept at their old levels. The code authority and NRA alleged that the company cut the wages within this range and that between November 27, 1933, and February 17, 1934, it paid employees $35.785 less than required under that section. NRA estimated that if this $10,000 in back pay was due.

On July 18 the company obtained a temporary restraining order in the federal court at Baltimore which blocked NRA from attempting to force it to pay the higher wages. The order also restrained Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, from depriving the company of its Blue Eagle.

The suit represented the first attack on the constitutionality of code authorities fixing wages above prescribed minimums.

weekly protection money to city officials.

He said each establishment paid Mayor Walmsley fifty dollars weekly and thirty-five dollars weekly to the police superintendent. Other protection funds were paid to police captains, he said.

A witness, saying he was Edward J. Oakes, brother of Carroll Walmsley, brother of Mayor Walmsley, had offered to get his property unseized from residential property to business property for $1,000. Oakes said he did not pay the thousand and his application for unseizure was rejected but that his neighbor had his place unseized. The witness expressed fear at testifying as he claimed that he had been shot at by three men in an automobile one night for complaining about his failure to have his property unseized.

After the hearings had adjourned until 2 p.m. Tuesday, Mayor Walmsley issued a statement denying the testimony concerning him.

"It has been called to my attention that Mr. Long had a man engaged in the lottery business make some statement that fifty dollars a week per company was paid to me," said the Walmsley statement. "I am sure people who know me and who had dealings with me know that this is an absolute falsehood."

"I wish to call attention to the public to the facts that the party did not change that I had been paid the money. I most positively desire to state that I have never received any of this money in the first place. In the second place, I have never been associated with gamblers or been a gambler in my life."

Carroll Walmsley also issued a flat denial to Oakes' testimony.

"Mr. Oakes' statement in the investigating committee this morning that I had offered to get a piece of property unseized for him for $1,000 is an absolute lie, and he knew this when he began to qualify that statement in advance by saying that it was simply a question of his word against mine."

An unidentified woman, who said she operated a house of girls, said she paid a dollar a day to the police for protection and that if she failed to pay off a policeman would come and stand in front of the place.

A witness giving his name as Louis Sahut testified that he had formerly operated a beer parlor with slot machines and paid eight dollars weekly for the privilege. He said if he had not been voting the Walmsley ticket he would have had to pay twelve dollars.

Near the close of the testimony, Senator Long ordered a subpoena issued for Alvin P. Howard, vice president of the Times-Picayune Publishing company, and the Hibernal National bank, after a witness had said an "old Howard lottery" was being operated.

"I don't want all this to go out over the radio without his denial—if it isn't true—just because his grandfather ran the old lottery," Long said.

Long introduced into the evidence an article published by the Item-Tribune on March 18 which said the gambling places were as "wide open as the mouth of a sleeping policeman," Merlin Kennedy, who wrote the article, was subpoenaed.

They declined to comment on their visit. But it was regarded as more or less perfunctory, inasmuch as the manufacturers at their recent New York meeting instructed the officials to lay their case before the president.

As he gave his attention to relief needs, the president received a report from James A. Moffett, administrator of the housing program, on its progress.

With the president in the afternoon was Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator.

They gave consideration to the reply of Governor Gifford Pinchot, in answer to the FERA insistence that Pennsylvania immediately provide its share of relief funds.

Rexford Guy Tugwell, under-secretary of agriculture, visited the summer White House and joined the president and Hopkins in a study of the drought relief program.

Housing Director Moffett, a morning visit, advised the president that "things are going strong. People are now thinking whether they should put some new paper on the wall or add another bathroom. There will be some figures available (on renovating loans) within ten days."

"Did I break the record?" was the first thing he asked as airport attendants surrounded his ship.

"They told him he had."

"By how much?" he demanded.

"By two minutes and 39 seconds," he was told.

He laughed but was obviously disappointed. He said he had hoped to bring the time down to around nine hours.

He plans to fly to Cleveland tomorrow where he will compete in the closed course competition at the national air races.

The decision to call out some 150,000 silk workers was somewhat unexpected. Peter Van Horn, chairman of the silk code authority, sent word he would confer here Tuesday with Gorman and members of the strike committee. His message was interpreted as a possibility of laying ground work for negotiations in that industry at last.

NRS ESTABLISHED IN NEW LOCATION

Employment Service Office Now At Old World Building

The office of the national re-employment service is now established in the old Morning World building on South Grand street, after having moved several days ago from the old postoffice building on St. John street. J. W. Worthington, manager, said Saturday. Some time was spent in moving records and arranging the equipment at the new location, but this work has been completed and the office is ready for the regular routine of work, it was said.

When the old postoffice building was authorized for use by the various NRA organizations, the NRS, CWA and ERA offices were moved to that location. Since that time the CWA has given way to the ERA. Because of the fact that the ERA needed additional space, it was decided that the NRS should move to another building.

It was through the cooperation of Carl H. McHenry, who has charge of the old World building, that the structure was obtained for use by the NRS. This organization does not pay rent on buildings it occupies, paying only salaries and such expenses as telephone bills.

The purpose of the NRS, a federal organization, is to bring the employer into contact with the person desiring work. Those qualified for work of various kinds list their names and occupations with the NRS, so that any firm wishing to employ either skilled or common labor may be able to make contact with such persons without difficulty.

FOR SALE—2.229 acres of land ideally located on both sides of Bayou Beaufort, the Nile of Louisiana, within one mile of Lake and 14 miles from Alexandria. Attractive for farming or cattle-raising with 62 on left descending bank of bayou that will raise anything that is planted, remaining acreage consists of both cut over pine lands as well as cut over swamp lands with good second growth of timber, swamp lands may be cleared for cultivation, with no reservations whatever, and there are possibilities for oil development as practically all of this section is being leased by major oil companies. Improvements are in run-down condition, owned by a non-resident who is offering at an extremely low price and a real bargain at $300,000. SUIT FILED BY CHERRY QUEEN

Girl Charges Dryden With Breach Of Promise, Seduction

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Michigan's "cherry queen" of 1933, Miss Morella Oldham, filed suit today for $75,000 damages against George Eastman Dryden, alleging breach of promise to wed, seduction and assault.

The 22-year-old beauty charged that they agreed on March 1, 1931, to marry and that subsequently Dryden prevailed on her to live with him as man and wife. Three weeks ago today he refused to be her bridegroom, she alleged.

Miss Oldham also charged that on August 11 of this year Dryden and "certain other men brought to the apartment for this purpose" attacked and beat her and then evicted her from the rooms without an opportunity to clothe herself properly. She required police aid, she said, to re-enter and obtain her effects.

Dryden, son of George B. Dryden, president of the Dryden Rubber company, was an heir to a share of the fortune of the late George K. Eastman, camera manufacturer. Eastman was the uncle of Mrs. George B. Dryden.

Young Dryden was divorced on April 22, 1933, by Mrs. Dorothy Heister Dryden, who was awarded custody of their two small children. Her divorce bill charged intoxication and that Dryden once chastised her with a dog leash.

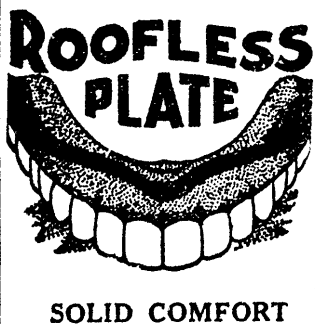

Last summer Miss Oldham, whose home is in Charlevoix, Mich., presented Rufus C. Dawes, president of a Century of Progress, with Michigan's prize cherry pie.

GERMANS ACCUSED OF MILITARY MOVE

Commission Says Saar Citizens Are Trained In Fatherland

GENEVA, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Charges that 16,000 Germans residing in the Saar region are receiving military training in Germany preparatory to their dispatch into the Saar on the occasion of the plebiscite next January were made by the League of Nations Saar governing commission today.

The commission communicated with the home offices of the league, saying it had discovered documentary proof of these charges by a seizure of papers from the office of the voluntary labor service of the German front organization in the Saar.

The commission said it deemed the situation so grave that it has drafted as an ordinance banning the voluntary labor organization from the Saar and compelling the youths enrolled to report to the police in order that they may be placed under surveillance.

The commission said that the documents proved the German front is maintaining constant relations with the authorities of the reich and promoting their interference in Saar affairs.

The plebiscite, which will determine whether the rich industrial region of the Saar will return to Germany, become part of France, or remain under the League of Nations, is regarded in Germany as of the utmost importance to the reich. Chancellor Hitler has called on all Germans residing in the Saar to vote for a return to Germany.
